GUEST OF ROTARY CLUB AT DINNER

Takes Part In College Commencement Exercises This Afternoon

GOVERNOR J. S. FISHER

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 8.—Governor John S. Fisher, who is the guest of honor at Westminster College commencement exercises this afternoon, arrived here about 12 o'clock. He came unaccompanied by any of his official cabinet or following, simply driving overland in his own car from his home in Indiana, Pa., for the ceremony.

Due to the fact that his driver was misdirected at Butler, the trip to New Wilmington was made from Butler by way of Slippery Rock, Grove City and Mercer. He plans to return to his home via New Castle, after the ceremonies.

To Break Ground

In addition to receiving the degree LL. D., during the graduating exercises at the United Presbyterian church in connection with the conferring of degrees upon a class of 75 seniors, Governor Fisher will break ground for the erection of the new main college building, the contract for which was let yesterday by the Westminster board of trustees.

After his arrival in New Wilmington at noon, the governor was greet-

Hindenburg Greets Chamberlin-Levine In Palatial Palace

American Trans-Atlantic Fliers Get Great Ovation In German Capital

GERMAN LEADER LAUDS AVIATORS

Dinner Engagements For Famous Fliers Pile Up; Will Tour Europe

By O. D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 8—Clarence D. Chamberlin and his flying companion, Charles A. Levine, who made a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles from New York to Germany, were received today by President Von Hindenburg of the German republic, at the presidential mansion.

Although the journey from the American embassy to the presidential palace is but a three-minute drive, the crowds made it impossible for the fliers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs".

Throng Surrounds Palace

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000, and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines, holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted Reichswehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling acknowledged all the greetings, while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meisner, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his

Howard Wimer, 24, Of Worth Township Is Accident Victim

Howard Wimer, aged 24 years of Worth township, Butler county, died Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock in the New Castle hospital as the result of injuries sustained Tuesday about noon when the auto in which he was riding upset on a hill south of Harlansburg, near Grantboro and pinned him beneath, rupturing his spinal cord.

His father, James Wimer who was with him was also painfully hurt but it is believed that his injuries will not prove fatal. He was badly bruised all over his body. A X-Ray was taken and it was found that no bones were broken.

Brought to Hospital

Both men were removed to the hospital soon after the accident in McClelland's ambulance.

It seems impossible to determine the cause of the accident. The car, a roadster was going at a considerable rate of speed. When near the bottom of the hill it skidded and turned over.

Wimer was born in Worth township September 10, 1903 a son of James and Nannie Leight Wimer, who survive him. He was employed as a tin worker in this city.

Besides his parents he leaves his wife, Margaret Wimer to whom he was married two years ago and one

Lindbergh's Ship Is Making Good Time

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 8.—(By radio to I. N. S.)—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the homestretch of his homeward journey today.

The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging 23 knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest Jackie.

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially the two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment upon his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

The young airman has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burrage discussing the possibility of regular trans-ocean airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's views upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they will deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival his

Fear Of Uprising In Peking Slowly Vanishes, Report

Negotiations Opened For Truce Between Three Warring Factions

U. S. MARINES TO STAY ON DUTY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING, June 8.—Fears of anti-foreign uprisings in Peking are gradually being dispelled as the negotiations for a truce between Chang Tso Lin, Chiang Kai Shek and Yn Hsi Shan continue.

Acceptance of Sun Yat Sen's three major principles for the future government of China, as demanded by the southerners as a prerequisite to a truce, is difficult for the northerners but there is an impression here that these principles will be accepted.

Northerners are reluctant to relinquish the Feng-Tien grip upon Peking and they do not relish the southern demand that the Feng-Tien army be re-named.

Present prospects are that there will be an eventual compromise and that the Tri-Partite truce will become an actuality.

American Minister Mac Murray stated today that he has no intention of requesting additional U. S. marines for Peking, but he will permit the marine reinforcements to remain at Tientsin where they have disembarked from the Henderson.

Minister Mac Murray states that there is little ground for fear in Peking now as the anti-foreign feeling is lessening each day.

By ALICE LANGELIER

OSTEND, Belgium, June 8—Cold rainy weather has brought an epidemic of colds and minor illnesses to the delegates to the Rotary International convention here, with the result that many of the delegates are already leaving.

The credentials committee today presented a report stating that thirty-seven of the 40 countries having Rotary clubs are represented at the convention. Eighty per cent of all the Rotary clubs in the world are represented and 21 countries have 100 per cent representation.

The United States has 1925 official delegates.

Today's session of the convention opened with a chorus of 21 Dutch boys and girls, in national costume, singing the Dutch National anthem and then singing in broken English the National anthems of the United States and Great Britain.

The convention rejected a resolution providing that Esperanto should be the language of all future conventions.

Dr. George Wittstein of Zurich, delivered an address urging "The most careful selection of all club members," and outlined the possibilities of the Rotary movement developing into a "League of International Friendship and Foundation for the Friendship of Universal Peace."

Says Memphis Coming On Time

Lindbergh's Ship To Reach Washington By Time Set Saturday

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 8.—Captain Lackey of the Memphis announced today that President Coolidge will not be kept waiting for the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh, the hero of the first continent-to-continent flight.

The Memphis will arrive at Cape Henry at six p. m. Friday night, if not earlier.

"We are making 22 knots an hour and are bringing Lindbergh home as we promised, on time", said Captain Lackey.

Lindbergh was up earlier than usual this morning and walked the decks with Captain Lackey and then went on the bridge and experimented with a sextant, observing that he might have used such an instrument on his flight if he had known how.

Lindbergh had luncheon today in the warrant officers' mess and tonight he will dine with the chief petty officers. He drew a slip from a hat during the afternoon to select which crew's mess he would eat at tomorrow.

With the Memphis in the Gulf stream, Lindbergh spent a busy afternoon watching for sharks.

Russian Press Attacks Great Britain As Instigator Of Assassination

INDIGNANT WAVE SWEEPING RUSSIA

By WALTER DEUSS.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Woikoff, in Warsaw.

The foreign office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

The Russian press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people for the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the "assassin's hands was directed by another," according to some newspapers.

Police Guard Embassy.

"London has become a place where it is possible to get a permit for any anti-Soviet crime," says Ivestia.

Mounted police are guarding the Polish embassy which has been closed.

Occasional street cries against Poland are heard.

Soviet Russia has notified Poland that she will hold that nation to strict accountability for the assasination of the Russian minister.

M. Litvinoff has handed a sharp note to the Polish minister here and declared that Russia will reserve the right to re-open the question of responsibility for the assassination as soon as detailed information is received.

The Russian note declares "this unprecedented crime is linked with a whole series of outrages against Soviet envoys abroad which have created a situation which menaces world peace. The raids at Peking, London and the siege of Shanghai have all unloosened terrorist activities of a group of reactionaries, who in their blind hatred against the working class have stooped to political murders."

Eight Nurses Are Graduated

Receive Diplomas From New Castle Hospital Training School

LARGE CROWD AT GRADUATION EVENT

Eight young ladies, who have completed the three year course of training in the New Castle Hospital School For Nurses conducted under the supervision of the Sisters of St. Francis, were graduated last night at exercises held in the Senior High School Auditorium in the presence of more than six hundred people.

Not only was the occasion of more than usual import by reason of the fact that the largest number of graduates since the inauguration of the commencement exercises of the School of Nurses six years ago, received diplomas, but also on account of the unusually large number of interested people in attendance and the excellence of the addresses made by the several speakers of the evening.

In Honor Positions

Occupying the position of honor on the stage were the eight graduates, in their white uniforms of a graduate nurse, and carrying red roses; B. F. Moorhead, director of the hospital and chairman of the evening, and the speakers, Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of the parochial schools in the diocese of Pittsburgh, the Hon. S. Plummer Emery, president of the board of directors and Dr. Eliah Kaplan.

Ferns, flowers and palms were used in an effective manner in making the stage attractive. Occupying seats at the front of the auditorium were the Sisters of St. Francis from the hospital, also those undergraduate members of the School of Nurses of the hospital, who were not required for duty at the hospital.

In addition to the speaking, there was an attractive program of musical numbers given by the Emery Orchestra, William D. Williams, Jr., Miss Petronella Popp, Elsa von Moltke Emery, Arthur Thomas, Mrs. Howard Meehan, with Wilfred Thomas, Miss Kathryn Nessle and Mrs. D. Duff Scott, as accompanists. The numbers of the program

Believe Ellwood Woman Shot Man, Then Turned Gun On Self

CAUSE OF DUAL CRIME UNKNOWN

Local Man, Victim Of Shooting, Leaves Widow And Seven Children

Murder and suicide ended what appears to have been an illicit love pact when on Tuesday evening, June 7, Mrs. Elizabeth Bryan, aged 31, wife of Robert S. Bryan of Ellwood City, shot and killed Micheal A. McIltrot, aged 41, of Oak and Spruce streets, this city. She then turned the gun on herself, death apparently having come instantly. McIltrot was shot in the left breast the bullet going to his heart, while Mrs. Bryan shot herself through the right temple, the bullet lodging in the brain.

The dual killing occurred sometime near midnight on what is known as the Savannah Road, leading southwest out of East New Castle, about five hundred yards from the New Castle-Ellwood Road. Sometime near midnight, Isaac Anderson a resident of this section of the county drove along the road and found a car blocking his way. In pulling around it he was forced into a rut and broke a spring.

Calls Sheriff

Annoyed because of the awkward parking of the car, Mr. Anderson called Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, who with Deputy William McK. Reynolds answered the call. When he opened the door of the car Sheriff Reynolds found McIltrot slumped down in the corner of the car, dead, and the woman in the other corner, dead, with a 32 calibre Spanish revolver clutched tightly in her hand.

The sheriff called the Kelley ambulance and the bodies were removed to the morgue and an endeavor made to find the underlying cause for such a revolting crime. The investigation seems to prove an

Many Lives Lost In Big Hurricane

(International News Service)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 8.—Many lives were reported lost today in a terrific hurricane, which ravaged the Anchialos district of the Black Sea coast. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted, vessels sunk and heavy damage done to crops.

Arthur Mometer

Azure skies and a summer sun, breath of the south or the golden west, a lazy breeze fanning verdant trees, these are the days that we love the best. Boys and girls who will leave today halls that have known them for four long years, some of them smile as they bid goodbye, but most of them smile through a mist of tears. This is the day for the mortar board, the deep black gown and the loved degree, can you imagine a better day, weather is perfect its seventy three. Boys and girls who will leave today out for the world for the things of life, out to begin what will be for them a battle with sorrow and joy and strife. Graduation how much means, the end of school but the start of work, success to them all and lets hope they find, health and contentment in all their work.

French Offer Olive Branch To Uncle Sam

France Desires Treaty To "Outlaw" War Between Two Nations

BRIAND PROPOSAL IS TAKEN UP

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—France has made overtures to the United States as to the desirability of negotiating a treaty between the two countries, definitely "outlawing" war, it was disclosed at the state department today.

Through Ambassador Herrick at Paris, Foreign Minister Briand has addressed an informal inquiry to the state department caluclated to elicit a reply as to whether the Washington government desires to discuss such a treaty. The suggestion was originally advanced by M. Briand in a speech some weeks ago.

While not desirous of appearing to reject such overtures, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are said to consider such negotiations unnecessary in view of the fact there is now in existence between France and the United States the Bryan arbitration treaty which provides settlement for almost every conceivable dispute that might arise.

Two Good Routes To East Side Are Available

Traffic fluttered with all the abandon of a wounded bird at the intersection of Croton avenue and East Washington street every time the patrolman on duty went on his relief, or rest period.

The cars made left turns into Washington street, missing eastbound automobiles by feet, while cars en route south on North Croton avenue were forced to wait long periods to enter Washington street.

Apparently traffic men are needed at every minute of the day and part of the night at the intersection, which has become busy since South Mill street, between East Washington and Water streets has been closed.

Automobilists who do not want to risk damage to their automobiles would save time by using South Jefferson to Maitland to South Mill through Lutton to East Washington to go east, or South Jefferson through Moravia via Long, Cunningham and Arlington avenues.

EIGHT NURSES ARE GRADUATED

were well rendered and received with applause.

Rev. Campbell Speaks

Declaring that the nursing profession is based on ideals that have for their basis in the doctrine and example of Jesus Christ, Rev. Paul E. Campbell, of Pittsburgh, one of the most widely known priests of the diocese of Pittsburgh, said in part "Christ Himself by his actions and precepts gave the basis of the profession of nursing, namely the affording of succor and relief of human suffering. He promised his apostles the power of curing sickness and disease.

"There are those who say that the hospital is the evidence of a lack of human sympathy, or just another means of shifting unpleasant burdens from our shoulders. Such is not the case. It is rather that the advance of surgery and medicine has made the hospital necessary in modern life. The hospital has made it possible for the poor to secure the best of care at the least expense to themselves.

"There has been no greater single factor in the advancement of the care of the sick, than those religious orders, which have devoted themselves to this line of work. Recently there has been greater attention paid to hospital work, and I believe that the success of your hospital here has been due, to a very great extent to the devotion of the Sisters, who are in charge, and to their great administrative ability, resulting from many years of experience of the Order in the conduct of hospitals.

"You nurses of the graduating class have a high ideal which has been taught you in your course of study and if you are not true to it, you will cast an aspersion on the profession, injuring yourselves as well as your profession. Never fail in bringing honor to your profession by serving the sick, and afflicted."

Present Diplomas

The Hon. S. P. Emery, president of the board of directors of the hospital, in presenting the members of the graduating class with diplomas, made an interesting address. He said that it was his pleasure to present the diplomas, which has been earned by study and hard work in the school of nurses. He said that it was an evidence of attention paid to duty and studies and exemplary habits on the part of the persons receiving them.

Dr. Eliah Kaplan was the concluding speaker of the evening's program and his remarks were most fitting and instructive. At the conclusion of his remarks, he presented the eight members of the graduating class with pins, which indicate that they are graduate nurses, and have successfully completed a term of service and study in a nurses training school.

He said among other things that "the nurse is essential in the complex life of our present day civilization. Modern civilization has its many advantages, also its many disadvantages and the profession of nursing has its place in maintaining the balance between these advantages and disadvantages. Nurses are indispensible in the present day life and have a wonderful part in the work of the world."

Members of the graduating class were the Misses Frances Rita Quinn, Smith's Ferry, Pa. Mary Amelia Marsic, Vera Dorothy Black, Ivaleah Mary Weaver, Gertrude Margaret Boyle, all of this city, Irene Catherine Gray of Niles, O., Elizabeth Mary Jacobs and Josephine Mary White, also of New Castle.

HINDENBURG GREETS CHAHMBERLIN-LEVINE IN PALATIAL PALACE

felicitations to the fliers and lauded their achievement.

President Hindenburg gave each of the fliers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

The two fliers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a stripped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plu-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans hove been invited.

Numerous Engagements.

Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlom hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Officials of the Lufthansa company—Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise—will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages, gifts of al. kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and which struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

Great Reception.

"It was certainly a great reception" said Levine referring to the arrival of the Columbia at Templehofer flying field late yesterday afternoon when 150,000 persons roared themselves hoarse with "hochs" and shouts of welcome. It was a sincere and wholehearted welcome and the Americans told Ambassador Schurman that they were touched by the sincere admiration and friendship of the Germans.

The Americans said that the strain of the reception upon their arrival was more tiring than that of the actual flight from New York. However they forgot this in the bustle of getting ready to call upon the German president.

A crowd began to gather in the streets around the American embassy at dawn. Thousands stood on the sidewalks straining their eyes towards the embassy to get a glimpse of the famous Americans.

Austrian Ambassador Felix Frank called and invited Chamberlin and Levine in the name of the Austrian government to visit Vienna.

Chamberlin and Levine said they hoped to tour Europe.

"I am interested in commercial aviation and I wish to study it throughout continental Europe" said Chamberlin. "I would like to visit Paris, Vienna, Rome and London. I have promised to go to London and hope to be able to do so."

OFFICERS FIND MAN AND WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH

affair between the man and the woman, but the reason for the murder is purely conjectural. The husband of the deceased woman believes that McIltrot had promised to take her away and finding that his promises were false she took him out in the car and shot him. Another theory advanced is that the woman was conscience stricken over her infidelity to her husband and in a fit of remorse shot McIltrot and then, horror stricken over her rash act, turned the weapon of destruction upon herself.

Worked in Ellwood City

While he was a resident of New Castle for the past 27 years, McIltrot worked in Ellwood City, his position being that of Circulation Manager for the Ellwood Ledger and representative for the Youngstown Telegram, according to Mrs. McIltrot. He also sold insurance as a sideline.

The stories told by the surviving husband and wife seem to bear out an agreement between the two dead people to meet on Tuesday evening. McIltrot had called his wife from Ellwood City saying that he would be working late and not to expect him for some time. Mrs. Bryan told her husband that she was going to take a washing over to a sick friend of hers. About 7:30 McIltrot was seen at the corner of Glenn and Fifth avenue, Ellwood City apparently waiting on someone.

The Bryans had been residents of Ellwood City for about six years according to Mr. Bryan's statement today. Both of them are originally from Butler County, Mr. Bryan being from Prospect and Mrs. Bryan from a settlement north of there. Thirteen years ago they were married. Later they moved to Aurora, Ill., and six years ago came back to this section, locating in Ellwood City where Mr. Bryan had been working for the National Tube Company.

About three years ago, according to Mr. Bryan, McIltrot appeared at his house saying that he wanted a room, and that he had been recommended by a neighbor. After some discussion Mr. Bryan agreed to let him have a room, but said that after ten days McIltrot's actions were such that he ordered him to leave. Since that time he has not seen the man, but said that he received rumors from friends that his wife was meeting a man. From his own knowledge he knows nothing of any illicit meetings.

Leaves Large Family

McIltrot leaves a large family to survive his folly. In addition to his wife, he leaves the following children: Lena, age 19, James, age 18, Mary, age 15, Anthony, age 13, Joseph, age 11, Beatrice, age 8 and Robert, age 1. He was born in Hillsville this county, February 2, 1886, and had been married about 21 years.

The Bryans had been married 13 years, Mr. Bryan being some years senior to his wife. Prior to her marriage to him her name was Elizabeth Hunter, and according to his statement today she had been married before her marriage to him, although he knew nothing of the affair.

Up until a few days ago their home had been at 935 Border street but were preparing to leave Ellwood City and had been staying at a son-in-law of of Mr. Bryan's D. J. McGeary of 411 Franklin avenue of Ellwood City. Tuesday evening Mrs. Bryan left saying she wanted to take the car and take a washing to a sick friend's and apparently did so.

Apparently the murder was premeditated by the woman, all the elements of premeditation appearing. She had brought the deceased man from Ellwood to a spot on a seldom traveled road and from the appearance of the wound in his breast, the shot was fired point-blank. His clothes were burned and powder marks surrounded the hole in his left breast. For her own destruction the woman had apparently place the gun directly against the temple as there was a gaping hole there and many powder burns.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell is investigating the case and will order an inquest within the next week. Arrangements are being made for the funeral of the two principals in the tragedy.

A relative of Mr. McIltrot today stated that the family would appreciate the donation of several automobiles for use during the funeral services Friday as the family is in straightened circumstances. Persons will call Joseph Frengel at 2742-J.

His body was removed late today to the residence of his father, Carl McIltrot, Moravia street extension and services will be conducted Friday morning from St. Vitus church with interment in St. Vitus cemetery.

Coroner J. P Caldwell stated today that an inquest would be held Monday evening, June 13.

Earl Carroll Is Taken To Atlanta To Serve Sentence

Doctors Report Theatrical Man Is Fit To Serve Time In Prison

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, is to begin his sentence of a year and a day in Atlanta prison at once.

Fast on the heels of Attorney General Sargent's decision that "there is nothing the matter" with Carroll, the producer was placed aboard an Atlanta-bound train at Greenville, S. C., early this morning and started on the road to prison.

Carroll collapsed while enroute to the prison six weeks ago and was removed from the train at Greenville where he supposedly lay in a "coma" for some days. Last week the department of justice sent two physicians to Greenville to examine him. It was apparently on their report that Sargent directed the producer be removed to the prison.

Carroll will get no credit for the time spent in Greenville. His sentence begins from the time he enters the prison.

Observe Golden Wedding Event With Ceremonies

Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Rice of West Washington street, which was of special importance not only in the lives of the persons celebrating but also in St. Mary's parish, was observed Monday with fitting ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice began the observance of the anniversary by renewing their marriage vows at a solemn high mass with all the ceremonies of the liturgy of the Catholic church at St. Mary's church. Rev. Fr. F. F. O'Shea, pastor of the church was the celebrant while Rev. Fr. M. J. Brennan was deacon, Rev. Fr. J. Dudley Nee, sub-deason and Rev. Fr. Francis S. Clifford in charge of the organ and choir.

This was followed by a wedding breakfast at the residence at which there were sixty guests, among whom were Mrs. Margaret Griffin of Youngstown, who was bridesmaid on the occasion of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Rice fifty years previous and Mrs. Philomena O'Donnell of this city, who was also at the wedding fifty years ago. A public reception was held all day at the residence and many friends called and paid their respects.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice were united in marriage at the present St. Mary's church, where they renewed their vows, on Monday, June 6, 1877 with the Rev. Fr. William F. Haynes, one of the early pastors of the congregation, officiating. An interesting feature in connection with the observance was the fact that the parents of Mr. Rice, Patrick Rice and Mary Fitzpatrick were united in marriage in St. Mary's parish. Patrick Rice the father was killed in the battle of Stone River during the Civil War.

John P. Rice, who is well known in this city, was a lifelong friend of the late Archbishop Canevin, the friendship originating when the late archibishop was a resident of this city in his early youth, and is also the oldest living graduate of St. Francis College, Loretta, Pa.

Mrs. Rice is the daughter of the late Philip Cluse and Caroline Eiseman Rice, who observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1904.

There were seven children born to Mr. and Mrs. Rice, of whom the following are still living and were present at the golden wedding anniversary observance, Mrs. Ella Fields, Mary M. and Florence Rice. Mr. and Mrs. Rice are enjoying good health in spite of their advanced age and thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

RADIO ON THE FARM

OFFICIAL figures compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture show the extent to which the radio is ending the isolation of the farm population of the country.

It is found that one quarter of all the farmers of the country already own and operate radio receiving sets, and that in two states, Rhode Island and New Jersey, the percentage of ownership of this amazing facility for communication is extraordinarily high, being eighty per cent in "Little Rhody" and ninety-six per cent in our neighbor across the Delaware.

Pennsylvania, only twenty-one per cent of its farms being equipped with radio apparatus, being excelled in this respect by both New York and Ohio.

Curiously enough the states showing the highest percentages are those in the agricultural Northwest and Middle West, where "farm discontent" has been most industriously exploited.

The farmers of the South have yet to learn the advantages of the radio, their average being the lowest.

FLIGHT TO BERLIN

THE magnificent achievement of Clarence D. Chamberlin in the Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" is an astounding second step in the conquest of the North Atlantic airway within a fortnight. Lindbergh, flying alone with the "Spirit of St. Louis," blazed the trail from New York to Paris by way of Newfoundland and Ireland. Chamberlin, flying substantially over the same course, carried the first passenger and went several hundred miles farther into the interior of Europe.

That he did not reach Berlin, his secret goal in the first hop, is not important except to the residents of the German capital who spent a fruitless watch-night at the Tempelhofer Aviation Field in the hope of greeting the new transatlantic heroes. It seems certain that Chamberlin became hopelessly lost when he sought to cross Germany. He had followed a true course across the Atlantic, but over the Continent he was groping for the route. At Dortmund, which is not far from the Belgian border, he descended close to the ground and shouted a request for direction. Seemingly the answer he received was as vague as that given to travelers by most roadside guides. The next hour found the "Columbia" grounded at Eisleben, a little town near Leipzig in Saxony. He was far to the south of Berlin and his fuel supply was nearly gone. But he fought the physical exhaustion that counselled acceptance of defeat, took on a supply of fuel and started toward Berlin. Again he seems to have lost his way in a cloudy, misty region, finally coming down in the marshes of the Spreewald. He was seventy miles to the southeast of the German capital and was nearing the Polish border. His second descent bogged the plane and damaged the propeller. Then only this courageous adventurer gave up the fight for the time being, completing the trip to Berlin yesterday.

Charles A. Levine, the passenger, presents an odd phase of the achievement. He owns the plane and he financed the expedition. A few days ago he was being roundly berated by many of the aviators around the Long Island flying fields as a wealthy man ready to send some of them to their death in the hope of getting fame and profit. The romance of pioneering that was in the heart of Levine was not revealed until he calmly and secretly settled his affairs, boarded the "Columbia" at the last minute and made off with his grinning pilot. There need be no doubt that he "worked his passage" across. Forty-two hours of continuous duty in cramped quarters where the utmost vigilance was required during every minute was an ordeal equally great for pilot and passenger. Given a direct course, they would undoubtedly have reached Berlin before their fuel became exhausted. But what they did has broken all records and set a new goal to be surpassed.

SMALLER FEET

THREE score years and ten in the leather business has convinced an Englishman that modern women have smaller and daintier feet than the most delicately tripping trilbies in grandmother's day.

This revelation is the more surprising for having come from England, where women have somewhat aggressively worn flat heels for at least a generation. Walking is still a popular method of keeping warm in that land of open fires, and it cannot be managed comfortably on pretty little spikes.

The impression has been current that everywhere women's feet are larger than they used to be because greater use of athletic sports has developed the bone and muscle. Especially in England would one expect to find the active flapper trotting on feet easily able to support her activity.

Girls and young men are taller than they used to be. There has been ample statistical proof of the increase in size of the average young person in this country. Doctors attribute the more athletic physique of the younger generation to better nourishment and generally improved living conditions.

Extremely high heels contribute to the apparent smallness of the foot. Exercise certainly increases muscle, and if the girls of yesterday had larger feet than those of today, they must have done more walking than they are ordinarily credited with.

It is a certainty that smaller sizes in feminine footwear will be in demand if "taxicab feet" become more general through the wearing of high heels which make walking arduous.

The egotist is always the other person.

Idle curiosity is probably the busiest thing on earth.

The more undesirable a reputation, the harder it is to lose.

Hints and Dints

In Russia a divorce can be secured for 20 cents. And we suppose there are just a lot of women readers of this column who will pipe up "What's the fare to Russia?"

All you married ladies in New Castle who still love or even speak to your husbands hold up your right hand if you would permit your husbands to fly in an aeroplane to Germany or some other foreign country across the seas. It's unanimcus.

By a consolidation of banks in Butler, Pa., there are just two less national banks in that city. Banks and Newspapers are getting fewer every year because it costs too much to run them.

Every time we hear of agitation for the building of a new bridge in the down town district of New Castle, we get nervous. You can build a solid bridge over the Neshannock from Jefferson street to North street and you will still have the traffic congestion on the same streets you have it on now. You will have to build a bridge either to the south or north of the city to take care of the traffic that does not have to go through the down town district. Reason should be used in building new bridges n ths city.

There's an advantage in an apartment. You have no back yard to reveal how lazy you are.

The Secretary of Labor of the United States says that what we need in America is high wages. Quite right. However, it should be with the many instead of with the few as it is now. Only about five per cent of the people of this country get the high wages and the rest have to dig and scrape to pay this heavy cost. Let's all get in on the soft stuff—little work ond high wages.

Pennsylvania physicians issued 83,430 more prescriptions for medicinal liquor last year than they did in 1925. That's a big increase and it is even more interesting when it is known that all those prescriptions have to be paid for in advance, as does also the whiskey.

Millions more Bibles were distributed last year than ever before in any one year. One can hardly notice the difference in spite of that.

The trouble with most young chaps now is that they want to start in business where papa left off.

No man ever knows what was the matter with his automobile until he gets the bill from the garage. And many garages have the bill ready and collect on it before the car is let go. Safety first there all right and they cannot be blamed much. Gasoline is sold for cash only in many places.

A Pittsburgh preacher declared that the youth of today is better physically, morally and spiritually than in any other period in the history of the human race. If that preacher could attend some public dances and also drive over the paved and unpaved roads of this wonderful country of ours and still think the same we will agree with him. We hope what he says is true.

We have read in the newspapers of an Irishman walking on his hands the 100 miles distance between Dublin and Belfast. If that Irishman happened to be Scotch and was saving shoe leather we would believe the story more easily.

Chuck Lindbergh's greatest ordeal is yet to come when the colleges of the land begin to pin honorary degrees on his manly bosom.

Over in dear old London the automobile drivers are in the habit of giving the right of way to pedestrians wearing high hats. But any one that tries to high hat the American driver would be a sure subject for a hospital.

The Procession of June brides will temporarily distract our attention from the parade of disillusioned wives in the direction of the divorce courts.

An anxious inquiry wants to know if bathing in salt water will reduce legs. We had never thought of that, but can recall seeing the most legs that needed reducing at sea resorts than at the river and lake bathing places. Salt water bathing may not result in taking off part of the legs but it is a fine way to show off legs.

French tailors are trying to put men into knee breeches, but the London tailors have refused to be stampeded. Short skirts may be okeh for women and girls, but short trousers for men, except on golf links, at baseball, tennis and other sports, hardly will be introduced with any degree of success, though some men act like boys much of the time and probably would feel at home in them. But a fashion of this kind would take away from the average boy the thrill he gets of wearing his first long pants, and we can't afford to eradicate that out of a boy's life.

Edward R. Kelsey of Toledo, Ohio, nationally known lecturer and Rotarian has attended almost a thousand banquets in his day, as speaker, and hasn't eaten a mouthful at any of them. He goes to the feeds, does his talking and then goes out and eats a meal to suit him. He says that banquets are the ruination of many men's digestive apparatus and he wants to save his. Banquets are pretty tough chawing and no mistake. We often have to sit and watch the others eat when we go out but we think we enjoy ourselves just as much as the eaters.

A good many places in America are planning to invite Lindbergh to visit them this summer, but here's saying that there isn't very many of the places that will get him. He won't accept very many invitations we are sure and in that he is to be congratulated.

Pennsylvania is to add 1500 more miles of good roads to what has already been built in this state, within the next two years. That is the kind of good news that we like to read about. Pennsylvania is already first in the matter of good roads and these additional miles will put the state so far ahead that there will be little chance of other states catching up.

Motorists have just about come to the conclusion that pedestrians cross the roads and streets just to annoy the drivers.

What is known generally at "a beaten path" will soon be worn over the Atlantic from America to Europe.

Levine is a good old-fashioned name and the flyer who flew across the Atlantic by that name may have many relatives in New Castle. They can well be proud of their namesake.

There are people who admit in order to get a divorce perhaps, that the great mistake of their lives was getting married—and then go right and do it again.

Lindenbergh.

Some said the thing could not be done,
For often it had been begun,
To end in dire dismay.
Yet fearing neither wind nor sea,
Nor what the elements might be
He dashed off on his way.

His perils no one else might share,
Yet mankind stopped to breathe a prayer
That he might safely land;
While bravely on, through day and night,
He steered unprecedented flight
With strong and steady hand.

From "Over Here to Over There"
He cleaved a highway through the air
As all alone went he.
Through fog and sleet he steered his way,
No element his flight could stay
While speeding o'er the sea.

All honor to the man with nerve
Who set his course and did not swerve
When danger blocked the way.
His fame is written on the sky
Along the course that men may fly
Upon some future day.

Twice in succession, American flyers have crossed the Atlantic at one "hop". Lindbergh flying to Paris, Chamberlin, with Levine, almost to Berlin.

What will military and naval gentlemen say now about their theory that "the airplane is no real menace to this country."

Out of two attempts to fly across the ocean by American flyers, both succeed.

What would be the probable percentage of success if 5,000 foreign aviators, with full government backing and unlimited expenditure of money, should fly the other way on a hostile errand?

Cyrus H. J. Curtis' evening newspaper, never an alarmist, says these two flights "show a new war menace," and "the flight assumed in the opinion of military officials the cloak of military menace, emphasizing the need for adequate air defense."

It's a little late for government officials to realize that men actually do fly and that so far as defense goes, the ocean of water no longer exists.

Battleships and coast defense guns are a joke. What could the German navy have done against Chamberlin, flying toward Berlin, 20,000 feet up? Nobody knew he was near until he flew down and made himself known.

President Coolidge will devote earnest attention to this plain fact: A hostile European nation could send a thousand or two thousand bomb-dropping air machines westward across the Atlantic today and within forty-eight hours New York, Boston and Washington could be wiped out.

Golf, according to accident insurance companies, comes third among "dangerous sports." Victims of 451 golf accidents collected insurance last year. Twelve for "cuts with sharp instruments." However, for one man injured at golf, one hundred die for lack of exercise, so play golf.

Chamberlin and Levine ended the longest non-stop flight on record, in Saxony, Prussia, in the town of Eisleben, where Martin Luther was born and died.

What would Luther have thought could he have seen that bird from the air land in his town?

Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, aged 74, is taken to a hospital, half starved. She had been economizing on food "to avoid poverty in my old age," lived on 37 cent day, and owns $6,000,000 worth of property, including $1,500,000 cash as shown in court. She is declared incompetent.

* * *

If she had been an old man, starving his brain and his spirit instead of starving his stomach, in pursuit of more wealth, she would have been "quite normal," and nobody would have interferred.

General Motors is invited to build airplanes and compete with Henry Ford in that field also. Sloan and Dupont may say that airplanes are not "commercial" and they can't put their stockholders' money in non-commercial enterprises.

Flying, however, would be commercial if they went into it with Ford, who has no stockholders to consult. The first American individual or corporation to build a giant all metal transatlantic airplane carrying one hundred passengers regardless of weather will render a great service to this nation.

George B. Underhill and his wife had been married forty-one years when a doctor told the husband that his wife, stricken with paralysis, could never be well again and could not live long.

Husband and wife agreed not to be separated. He killed her and himself, arranging burial in one grave and leaving $50,000. They had no children. The ancients would say that was doing what they had a right to do. Our generation calls it sin.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE JEW, A NATIONALIST

Mr. Francis J. Oppenheimer, a noted authority on Jewish Criminality, strikes a new note in the Jewish issue in his last book, "The New Tyranny," which has just been published.

It is that if the Jew is a menace to society it is not because he is an internationalist but because he is such a confirmed nationalist. All the rest of the world is moving slowly toward the idea of internationalism. Even Communists envisage it and the intellectuals of most countries regard it as the one hope for our civilization.

But the Jew has been conspicuously absent from the ranks of internationalism.

Mr. Oppenheimer says that "the first to enlist in the army of the Great War in this country was a Jew." He adds that, "Belloc differs from Chesterton in that with him anti-Semitism is a sort of mental exercise, while with Chesterton hatred never becomes intellectual but is always blind. Had the Jew a national indifference to national feeling, as Belloc gravely accuses him, and as Ford implies, he would long ago have inaugurated a more cosmopolitan culture for himself."

It is his international character that worries Ford and Belloc more than all his other sins, but that character is really a myth. It doesn't exist outside of Belloc's neat paragraphs and Ford's hysterical fears.

He alleges that the Jew who has produced the international financier type has also sharpened to a vicious point all the national psychologies, a trait which Ezekiel noted when he complained "you have done after the ordinances of the nations that are round about you."

The greatest foes to rebuilding Zion are not the British Lords nor the Syrian Arabs but the German Jews who see nothing in the whole thing but a Russian scheme.

Isador Singer thinks that the real objection of the Jews to Jesus was his "flouting of Jewish nationalistic feeling," and Wells adds that the last word used by David was "blood."

Mr. Oppenheimer says that Lasalle is supposed to have mapped out the national policy of Germany that Bismarck put into effect, and the President of the National Security League of America during the war was a Jew.

Curious it is that the Jew who has no land of his own exaggerates the traits of his adopted country. What is more English than an English Jew, or more French than a French Jew, or more Russian than a Russian Jew, or more Portuguese than a Portuguese Jew?

The Jews in China are more Chinese than the Chinamen just as the Beni Israel are more Indian than the Hindus.

"The American Jew," Mr. Oppenheimer says, "is forever proclaiming the superiority of the stars and stripes. In fact, Ben Altheimer inaugurated Flag Day, something the Ku Klux Klan does not appreciate."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A SENSE WELL DEVELOPED

The other day a New York resident by the name of Sandro Rodriguez accepted a drink from the hip flask of one Ralph Martinez, a total stranger. Raising the flask to his lips, Mr. Rodriguez smelled, frowned, excused himself, returned after several minutes with a policeman, who arrested Martinez for burglary. Martinez pleaded guilty. He had stolen not only the wine which Mr. Rodriguez recognized instantly as his own, but several of his rings, bracelets, and also his watch. Mr. Rodriguez had SOME smeller. It isn't every self styled or reputed connoisseur who can recognize the bouquet of any particular wine. The story reminded me of an incident to which I was an eye witness.

In the old pre-Volstead days, a delightful gentleman of New Castle gave a dinner. The dinner was perfect, so it seemed, to all of us. There was one guest, however, who seemed disturbed because of the labels on the champagne bottles—He said, addressing the host, "Mr. Blank, I can not understand you. You give magnificent dinners; everything is the best that can be obtained, and yet you serve California wine."

The host said in answer that he doubted whether any guest at the table could tell the difference between good California champagne and French champagne, to which the guest promptly replied that he could.

"Very well," said the host," you have been drinking Paul Maison Champagne, the best that California makes. I have also here a bottle of Paul Roget, one of the best of French Champagnes. If you will step into the other room, I will pour a glass of each, and set them side by side, where all present here may see, and I will bet you ten dollars you can not tell me which is which."

The guest accepted the proposition, retired, and the glasses were filled. He returned, picked up the first glass, passed it under his aristocratic nose, picked up the other, did likewise, sipped the second glass (poured from the Paul Maison bottle) and said at once, "This is the Paul Roget,—no question about it!"

No one at the table showed any sign or word what had happened. But no one was prepared for the action of the host. "You win," he said, "but I don't see how you did it!"

The guest was never made wiser, and unless he sees this story and recognizes the incident, he never will be wiser. The other guests knew and they knew that the host knew that they knew.

HOW THE TRAIN WAS WRECKED

Pretty little Mary Jane
Once she wrecked a railroad train.
She'd deny this fact to you,
No one knows it, but it's true.
You can blame her face and eyes
For those tangled tracks and ties
And those piled up cars of freight,
"Bad dispatching," papers state.
Jerry failed who should have not.
Jerry's fired, for he forgot,
But the one who wrecked that train
Was the lovely Mary Jane.

Jerry hasn't said a word
That the world has ever heard.
Save that he sent out that freight
Without orders where to wait,
Jerry knows he'd rather die
Than to give the reason why
He forgot so grave a thing,
Where his mind was wandering
On that sad and fearful day
Jerry isn't going to say
But to me it's very plain,
Mary wrecked that railroad train.

Mary with the winsome ways,
Had poor Jerry in a daze.
Mary with the laughing eyes
Had him dreaming, I surmise.
Thinking thus of Mary Jane
He forgot about the train.
Anyone who's loved a girl
Knows the brain is all awhirl;
Knows he cannot keep his mind
On a task of any kind.
'Twasn't Jerry wrecked the train,
'Twas the charm of Mary Jane.

THOSE READERS

In the days of our grandfathers almost every lesson one learned in school was supposed to carry a moral with it. The teaching of morals along with reading, geography and mathematics is no longer considered good pedagogy. Of what significance is this change in teaching methods in relation to the comparative morality of old times and new times? Your answer will depend upon the age of the person asked. Personally I do not think there is much difference between the real morals of our grandparents and our children. It is the point of view that differs.

"The Burial of Moses" was one of the sonorous poems that used to make an impression on my childish mind when I heard it read by the fifth reader class. At Riverside school a long, low, one-story, one-room, one-teacher, one-stove institution of learning near Wichita, Kansas, all the pupils of all grades and ages from five to 21, were together all day. Classes recited on long wooden benches across the back of the room, facing a long blackboard. We younger ones were privileged to hear the older ones recite if we wished to do so. As I never could learn arithmetic anyhow, I was glad to devote my arithmetic study time to careful listening to the recitation of the older reader classes.

"Somebody's Darling", another solemn, tearful, deathbed variety of poem that was a popular reading for children when I went to school. There was a gigantic, awkward farm boy named Byron Kungle who used to recite these depressing poems with a resounding oratorical flourish that was the wonder and admiration of the entire neighborhood.

At last day of school exercises Bryon was the star reciter. He generally stuck to the good old favorites of McGuffey's or the later readers. Something with a heart-throb in it.

"Bingen on the Rhine" was one of Byron's sure-fire recitations. It was in all the old readers, and was a fine, harrowing tale of a dying soldier. "Marco Bozzaris" was another good one to make the chills creep up and down the spines of the children. "The Death of Little Nell" and "The Death of Paul Dombey" were tear-starters that always caused a scene when read in class, for there was always some pupil who had lost a brother or a sister lately.

Of course I think it was bad pedagogy to put so much gloom and sorrow into the readers. But they were great old readers, anyway.

CLASS OF 1902 ENJOYS REUNION

Twenty five years ago forty nine young men and women left Westminster College with a coveted sheepskin in their hands. For four years they had labored in the halls of Old Westminster and now they were prepared to go out and start life in earnest.

Tuesday night, June 7, more than half of these same young men and women were together again, when the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Dinner of the class og 1902 was held in the New Castle Field Club.

Time has dealt kindly with most of them and yet the locks that were chestnut in 1902 were silver last night. From as far west as California and as far east as the Atlantic coast they came, happy to be back again once more as a class, and the titles and worries the past quarter of a century has added to them were forgotten for the time, and they were just youngsters again.

There were no set speeches at the reunion. Nobody wanted them, for after all it was just a day out of 1902 called back. Instead of speeches there were reminiscences, tales of the business world, of the clinic and of the mission field, tales of accomplishment and of desires fulfilled, and through it all a recalling of the incidents that seemed so important in those days when the twentieth century was just opening.

Attorney Clyde Gibson of this city acted as chairman of the reunion dinner and introduced Miss Mabel King, well known contralto of Pittsburgh, a graduate of Westminster 1913, who sang. And how she sang. This was not a concert for profit, not a performance for a group of critics, it was the outpouring of the soul of an artist to a gathering of her own people, and somehow there was an added quality in her voice that perhaps she can not always command. She was accompanied by Miss Jessie Mockel, head of the piano department of Westminster College.

The following is the list of the class of 1902 who attended the reunion dinner.

C. C. Porter, New Castle; Mrs. W. R. McMunn, Pittsburgh; Mrs. R. H. McPeak, Santa Ana, Cal.; May McKelvey, New Wilmington, Pa.; Dr. J. K. Gamble, Cleveland, O.; A. M. Laing, Missionary in India; Miss Mitchell, Cleveland, O.; Ann Adair Houston, Pittsburgh, Pa.; W. R. Veazey, Cleveland, O.; Mrs. A. L. Wible, New Wilmington, Pa.; R. G. Deevers, Pittsburgh; Dr. J. L. McBride, Pittsburgh; Mrs. W. R. Veazey, Cleveland, O.; wickley, Pa.; Mrs. William McElwee, New Wilmingtn, Pa.; Attorney Clyde Gibson, New Castle, Pa.; Attorney Roy Neville, Sharon, Pa.; C. DeWitt Breaden, Butler, Pa.; Dr. J. O. Donaldson, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELEBRATED JUNE 9

Mr. and Mrs. Clark B. Hamilton, 115 East Lincoln avenue will celebrate their fifty eighth wedding anniversary Thursday, June 9. The event will be in charge of the executive board of the Wimodausis, and all past presidents of the organization will be on the reception committee. All Wimodausis members, and friends of the honored couple will be received informally, between 2 and 5 o'clock.

A. U. R. Girls

Mrs. Clifford M. Propst, with Mrs. Harry E. Barnes and Mrs. Louis Rudesill entertained the A. U. R. Girls of the Central Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening in the home of the former on North Beaver street.

The program was in charge of Miss Sara Rice. Mrs. Roy E. Graham discussed the foreign topic, "Philippine Islands" in a most interesting manner, and the national topic, "West Indies" by Mrs. Frank Rudesill. During the business meeting plans were made for a tureen dinner to be held at Cascade park on Tuesday evening, July 12th.

Later in the evening tempting refreshments were served by the hostesses, covers being laid for twenty-eight guests.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wingerd, Mrs. Jessie M. Camblin, and Mrs. Elmer Fehl of this city, and Mrs. William D. Warnock of Ellwood City were special guests.

Break Ground For Dormitory

First Earth Is Turned In Excavation For New Westminster Hall

WILL RUSH WORK ON CONSTRUCTION

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8.—Impressive in its simplicity was the ground breaking for the Robert Audley Browne Memorial Dormitory at Westminster College, marking an important step in Westminster's building program, at three p. m. Tuesday afternoon.

The site for the memorial hall is only a few rods from the college gym towards the old McKelvey property. The first shovelful of dirt was lifted by W. E. Browne of New Castle, a son of Robert Audley Browne, deceased, in whose honor the dormitory has been named. The second shovelful of earth was raised by Dr. J. C. Kistler of Ben Avon, newly appointed president of the board of trustees. Just before the first dirt was lifted prayer was said by Dr. W. D. Irons of McDonald, a graduate of the college and a member of the board of trustees for 40 years, followed by a few words from Dr. Kistler.

The ground-breaking climaxed steps taken during the day towards building development on the campus. During the morning the board of trustees let contracts for both the Robert Audley Browne Memorial Hall and for the Old Main Memorial building to replace Old Main, destroyed by fire January 24. The J. Clyde Gilfillan Company of New Castle received the contract for the dormitory building, while the Old Main contract was let in pieces as follows: general contract, Smith and Bauman, New Castle; plumbing and heating, R. T. Withers Sons and Company, New Castle, and electric the Ochiltree Electric Company of Pittsburgh. Work on both buildings will proceed at once.

Service Division Members Banquet

Social Meeting Is Enjoyed At Scottish Rite Cathedral On Tuesday

Service Division members of the Scottish Rite body of New Castle and their wives held their first annual banquet and social meeting Tuesday evening, June 7, in the east dining room at the Scottish Rite Cathedral building. About 120 were seated at the tables and enjoyed the dinner served by ladies of the Wimodausis. Immediately after the dinner John E. Elliott, chairman of the Service Division personally introduced all the members and the ladies with them.

An informal program followed the dinner with James P. Toler acting as Master of Ceremonies. John S. Wallace, First Commander-in-Chief of the Scottish Rite made a brief speech in which he lauded the work of the Service Division what they had done and the bright outlook for the future. Mayor William H. Dunlap, commander-in-chief of the consistory also praised the work of the division and promised co-operation and co-ordination during his tenure of office. It was the first appearance of the new Commander-in-Chief before the service men and he was given a rousing welcome. Howard B. Richards spoke humorously and to the point and John E. Elliott closed the program with a greeting to the boys and a suggestion that the ladies be organized into an auxiliary to assist in entertaining the ladies who come with their men at the reunion times.

J. O. Funkhouser, vice president and general superintendent of M. P. Moller, Inc., organ builders of Hagerstown, Maryland, was introduced and stated the organ that he was here to install was the best of the 5,000 his company had built.

The Castletons, a junior orchestra, played during the dinner and gave some fine singing and dancing numbers, Mrs. Henry Badger assisted at the piano. Stanley Tresser led the singing. The after dinner hours were spent informally in cards and dancing. The committee in charge was James P. Toler, Howard Erwin and W. A. Taylor.

Senior High School News

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS JUNE 13

Summer school will open Monday morning, June 13, according to Principal Frank L. Orth of the Senior High school. This school will be held for six weeks between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 12 noon. It will be held at the Benjamin Franklin Junior High school.

All students of the New Castle public schools receiving a failure or a condition in any subject have a chance to make the work up if they attend this summer session.

Advanced work can be taken also, providing the student has an average of 90 per cent, or B.

CLOSING CHAPEL FRIDAY

The closing chapel at the Senior High school will be held Friday morning, June 10. School will be dismissed for the year at the conclusion of the program.

Awards for art posters and football, basketball and track men will be made at this time.

Those who will be presented with prizes for the best posters in connection with the Lawrence County Garden Club are as follows:

First place, Maude Throop.

Second place, Margaret Zimmerly.

Third place, Frances Carlon.

Honorable mention goes to Louise Davies, Claudia Bauman, Sadie White, Philip Cohen, Clark McClelland and Tony Anncello.

Awards will be made by a representative of the Carnegie Steel Co. safety division.

At the present time these posters are on display at the Carnegie auditorium.

SENIOR HIGH BAND MAKES TRIP

Members of the band of the Senior High school left Tuesday for Slippery Rock, Pa., where they will participate in the commencement program of the Slippery Rock State Normal school.

They were taken in busses and automobiles and probably will return Tuesday night.

REPORTS ISSUED

On Tuesday, June 7, the last reports for the present school term were issued.

The monthly grade, the final exam grade, the number of points, the semester average and whether the student failed, completed or was conditioned in the subject were included in the report.

NUMERALS STILL REMAIN

The numerals '27, which were painted on the walks, portables and even on the main building of the Senior High school several days ago by some member of the senior class or possibly some other person or persons, still remain visible.

Efforts have been made to remove the marks during the past week, but with little success. The marks on the portables have been painted over. The numbers on the main building were covered with red mortar, while the numbers on the walk have been covered with a thin coat of cement. The recent rains, however, have washed away the cement and the numerals have reappeared.

It looks as if the numbers must be worn away by the constant tramping of future classes.

Start Actual Work On Construction Of Cathedral Organ

Completion of the large pipe organ in the Scottish Rite Cathedral is promised by the middle of September by J. O. Funkhouser, vice president and general superintendent of M. P. Moller, Inc., of Hagerstown, Maryland, builders, who with a force of experts arrived on Tuesday, June 7, to start the work of installation. It will take three months of steady work to completely install the organ and the work is now under way.

In speaking of the organ Mr. Funkhouser stated that this was the finest and best his company had ever built and to date they have installed more than 5000 pipe organs.

New Wilmington Flies U. S. Colors To Honor Governor

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 8.—When Westminster grads and students awoke this morning they found the litle old town the home of Westminster, garbed in gala attire.

The reason for the "fuss" is that Governor John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, is here today attending Westminster's 75th commencement anniversary, marking the 75th year in the history of the United Presbyterian school.

Flags were flying everywhere. Every business house on Market street is adorned as is many of the residences throughout the town.

Curbstone flag poles were installed Tuesday and carried their American flags today for the first time.

All in all it is a big time in the little college town. Events have been occurring in bewildering succession during the past few days, events that mean a greater Westminster college in the future.

Fireman Is Given Medal For Saving Life Of Dog Hero

(International News Service)

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., June 8.—J. G. Martin, bashful young plumber, is among the proudest of the proud here today as the result of a gold medal awarded him by the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society for saving the life of "trixie" a Fox Terrier, during a fire here last February 28.

"Trixie" who incidentlly carries about her neck a ribbon awarded her by the same society, saved the lives of six families during a fire which swept their homes here and was threatened with death when Martin arrived.

The plumber, who is also a member of the fire company here, was decorated with the medal yesterday at the thirty-third meeting of the Humane society, in Pittsburgh. The medal is the first ever awarded for saving the life of an animal.

Alumni Day Is Memorable

Three Events At Westminster On Tuesday Mark Day's Program

PEACE POW-WOW ENDS SCHEDULE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8.—Three interesting programs added to make Tuesday, Alumni Day at Westminster College, most successful, during the late afternoon and evening.

At 3:30 p. m. the senior Class Day exercises were held in the Community hall. At 8:30 Princess Tsianina, a noted Indian soloist, rendered a program in the United Presbyterian church, while at 10, the peace pow-wow involving the junior and senior classes was held on the campus.

Miss Isabel McConagha, was in charge of the Class Day program which was in the form of a vaudeville show, involving the Orange and Black Vaudeville Artists. Orange and black are the class colors.

The program included:—Miss 1827, the date of the first vaudeville, Miss Helen Davidson of Ingram; Miss 1927, Miss Dolly Cassidy of Burgettstown; Bricker, the Kicker, by Brown Bricker of Braddock; a feature picture, "The Cannibal and the Skeleton," involving Harry Newell of Sharon, Paul Jones of Sharon, Andrew Harmody of Sharon, and Albert Berry of Eighty-Four; Hortensia, the magic doll, Miss May Richards of New Castle; The Daily Doesn't, Howard Logan of Edgewood; the Oriole Music Makers, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Mary Braham of New Wilmington, Miss Margaret Munro of Oakmont, Miss Isabel McConagha of New Wilmington, and Miss Lillian Wright of Springboro, Thirston, the magician and company, Jess Cogley of Braddock, and Miss Helen Davidson of Ingram; Class donors, Miss Nancy Miller of Butler, and Paul Montgomery of New Castle; presentation of colors by seniors to freshmen, by Joseph Dickson of Pittsburgh, and received by Robert Furst of New Castle, and finally, echoes of the senior sing.

Ushers were:—Miss Helen Stewart of Sharon, Miss Mary Stewart of Freeport, Miss Ruth McCormick of Parnassus, Miss Martha Wallace of Parnassus, Miss Mae Sands of New Castle and Miss Dorothy Eccles of Pittsburgh.

Princess Tsianina delighted her audience with her rendition of Indian songs. The princess has national repute as a singer and Westminster was fortunate in obtaining her at a time when the grads could avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing such a singer.

The peace pow-wow, was a solemn ceremony. At this time, the juniors and seniors buried the hatchet and smoked the proverbial pipe of peace. The pipe smoked was a genuine Indian peace pipe having been obtained by the college from the Pipestone reservation at Pipestone, Minn. Robert Ferguson of Bellevue, represented the seniors and Halden Williams of Carnegie, the juniors. A wig-wam was erected on the campus for the occasion and a fire lighted. The class representatives were attired in Indian garb.

Real Christianity is a revolutionary idealism which estranges conservatives because it is revolutionary and revolutionist because it is idealistic.—Dean W. R. Inge.

Graduate Of '69 At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8.—Probably the oldest grad in attendance at the Alumni Day activities of the Commencement week program at Westminster college Tuesday was Attorney J. W. Stewart of Cleveland. Mr. Stewart graduated from the college with the class of 1869. He is now retired.

Mr. Stewart arrived early in the day and kept busy throughout his visit meeting old friends and adding to his long list of acquaintances. He seemed to be enjoying the opportunity of visiting the campus again, although he remarked with humor that many changes have come over the old school since the days when he was an undergrad.

He left for his home in the late afternoon.

During the evening hours from 6 until 8:30, fraternities and sororities held reunions as did several classes. The class of 1902 met at the New Castle Field club; the class of 1907, at he home of J. G. Patterson; the class of 1917 at McLaughry's and the class of 1897 at the Overlook.

Preparing Great Welcome For Lindy At Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Cable to New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—To be "treated like royalty" was considered the superlative of swell treatment—once.

When you'd treated anybody "like royalty," you'd gone the limit.

There wasn't any more.

But after Washington's finished treating Charlie Lindbergh—

Why tush, tush, tush!

Compared with the way the national government's laying itself out to treat that boy, the expression "treated like royalty" will sound like the equivalent of greeting a guest "H'lo, when d'ya git in?" without looking up from your work.

* * *

I've seen the capital receive the Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Sweden and the Crown Prince of Japan in the last two or three years. They're royalty.

Or, if you insist on actual crowned heads—the King of Belgium and the Queen of Rumania.

None of those receptions were a patch on what's framed up for Lindy.

I've seen a couple of presidential inauguration and Washington wasn't lit up in anticipation—or realization—of either, or both of 'em put together to hold a candle to what it is now.

Why, there was the world's series here in 1924 and another in 1925 and neither of them threw this burg into the state of excitement it's in over Charlie's coming.

To supply details of the preparations they're making for Lindy, to describe the decorations they're fixing up for him, to summarize the program and to give the various lines of march is no part of my job. Numberless miles of telegraph wires have tickety-tick-tick-ticked all this information to every corner of this fair land and eke have countless loud speakers squawked it into the air.

But maybe it isn't so generally known that the number of arrangement committees and sub-committees had reached 47 ten days in advance of Lindbergh's coming and more were being formed all the time.

John Hays Hammond, as chairman of the citizens or co-ordinating committee, has the charming responsibility of seeing that these outfits' plans don't clash, and you can take it from me that Secretary Hoover, in the midst of superintending the Mississippi river floods, had an easy time of it compared with that old mining engineer's.

Aside from Lindy, the thing will be a show in itself.

The railroads are standing by for the biggest crowd of excursionists they ever handled.

The hotels are booked up to their bathrooms and corridors.

Folks with windows looking on Dupont Circle, where President Coolidge will receive Charlie at the temporary White House, are figuring on getting moderately rich, renting 'em out.

Every official "big bug" in Washington—generals, admirals, cabinet members, everybody else, from the president on down—will be on display.

There'll be troops and bluejackets on the ground and airplanes over head.

It'll be the greatest jamboree this town ever saw.

New York may outdo Washington in numbers, but it can't equal it in concentrated notabilities.

Coolidge, Kellogg, Mellon, two Davises, Sargent, New, Work, Wilbur, Jardine, Hoover, Summerall, MacNider, Lejeune, Eberle!—just a few samples. That's the kind of people we'll have here.

Perry Highway To Be 18 Feet Wide

GREENVILLE, Pa., June 8.—Recent opening of bids at Harrisburgh, for the purpose of having two feet in width added to the Perry Highway link being built from near Hadley to Sheakleyville, resulted in the contract being awarded to Jamieson and Knapp, of Fredonia, for $8,176.74. These contractors are at present laying the concrete on the route on a former contract calling for only a 16-foot width, and will make the additional two feet to conform with the new contract.

The state's sudden decision to have an additional two feet added to the 2½ mile link is believed to indicate that the road is to be soon scheduled for complete building from Erie to Pittsburgh.

Still, if there were no parking regulations, there would be room for only thirty hogs to the block.

Linen Trade Here Hit By German Corner

American Buyers In Europe Find Supply Curtailed And Prices Up 50 Per Cent

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company

Special Cable to The New York Times

PARIS, April 22. — American housewives probably will have to pay considerably more for their linen because of the German corner on the European flax market. American buyers for large department stores who are beginning to arrive in Paris for their annual purchase of linen are finding that prices have risen 50 per cent and in some cases 60 per cent over last year's prices.

Buyers in America of raw flax also are affected by the German domination of the flax market, which was brought about through acceptance of Russian flax in payment for more than a million uniforms now being manufactured in German factories for the Soviet army.

How about Linens for the June Bride, or perhaps you need some for yourself. You'll find our prices very moderate.

YOUNG LEVINES EXPRESS JOY

This is an action photo of the young sister and brother of Charles A. Levine, backer and passenger of Clarence D. Chamberlin in his New York-Germany non-stop flight. They are Shirley, 9, and Mortimer, 6, and they are expressing happiness at their home in Pittsburgh, Pa., where Isaac Levine, father of the owner of the Columbia, is president of the Columbia Steel & Tube Co.

"Columbia" Was Lost Over Germany

Chamberlin Reveals Cause Of Disaster That Befell Big Plane

By O. D. TOLISCHUS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany, Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the trans-oceanic flight with both compasses out of order.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg, who received Chamberlin and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snow storm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came to Europe rather to the South of Ireland, over the English channel.

"When we were over the continent we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zig-zagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

"Towards dawn we saw a large city and went down to fifteen feet above the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund but we thought it was Bremerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Cottbus. Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction because, though we had taken two compasses, both got out of order. One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way.

Fliers Plan To Leave Berlin For Tour Of Europe

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine announced today they will leave Berlin Saturday. They did not disclose their destination but said they would return to Berlin to meet their wives who are due here next week.

Levine Involved In Rigid Investigation

Man Who Accompanied Chamberlin Across Atlantic Subject To Probe

Claim Violation Of Postal Laws And Other State Regulations

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the postoffice department and the department of justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the war department. There have been allegations of irregularities in some of Levine's salvage contracts with the war department, out of which he is reputed to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case, Attorney General Sargent had nothing to say today.

Postmaster General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry air mail to Germany, and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, L. I., violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchell Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collectors' value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

Crossing At Carbon Reported Dangerous By Wm. J. Edwards

Constables Of Other Districts In County Return Roads And Bridges

In a return made to court today Constable W. J. Edwards of Mahoning township reported that there is a dangerous crossing at the Carbon brick plant, where the Edenburg Lowelville road crosses the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks. It is stated that there are no signals of any kind to warn travellers of the tracks. It was at this point that William R. Curley of Youngstown was killed last week when an Armour truck which he was driving was struck by a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie passenger train. Judge Hildebrand directed that the prothonotary notify the road supervisors of Mahoning township.

W. A. McKeon, Constable of Little Beaver township, reported that Mud Bridge over the Little Beaver creek is in a dangerous condition.

H. H. Knox of Pulaski township, reported that the road north from Skeller's corners and leading to the Mercer Pulaski road is in a dangerous condition, at the approach to a bridge and also that a hill needs attention.

Mike Fazzone, Constable of the eighth ward reported that Balph avenue, the dividing line of the city and Shenango township and South New Castle borough is in bad shape.

Samuel C. Smith reported that the road is bad at the intersection of Smithfield and Boro line street, also the West North, Sampson streets and the Harbor road.

The court directed that the road supervisors in each of the districts mentioned be notified.

Plan To Observe Flag Day With Special Service

Rev. P. C. Pearson Arranges For Service In Trinity Church Sunday

At the last meeting of the Sons of the American Revolution, Mrs. F. G. Simonton, who was reporting on some historical investigations she is making for the organization, called attention to the fact that on June 14th, 150 years under the American flag will be completed. She asked the Rev. Philip C. Pearson, who was present if he would be willing to hold a patriotic service in commemoration of this notable event in the Trinity church on June 12th and preach a sermon suitable to the occasion. This he consented to do. The matter kindled the imagination of all present, and by unanimous vote, Mr. Pearson was asked to invite all of the patriotic organizations of the city and county to this service. The Sons voted to attend in a body and members present pledged themselves to urge absentees to make a special effort to come.

In accordance with this resolution invitations have been sent to local chapters of the the following organizations:—Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of 1812, Grand Army of the Republic, Ladies of the G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Daughters of Veterans, United Spanish War Veteransand their Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion and their Ladies Auxiliary, Service Star Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Ladies Auxiliary.

To this service the general public is invited, for the church is large and it is believed there will be room for all, as the ranks of some of these organizations have been very much thinned by death.

A special service has been arranged and is being printed so that everyone may take a full share in it.

Word comes from other municipalities that the sesqui-centennial of the American flag will be widely observed. The president is to take special recognition of the day and the governors of nearly all of the states. Thus through the efforts of Mrs. Simonton and the Sons of the American Revolution New Castle is to abreast of the best.

Dynamite Blast Wrecks Home Of Young Pugilist

(International News Service)

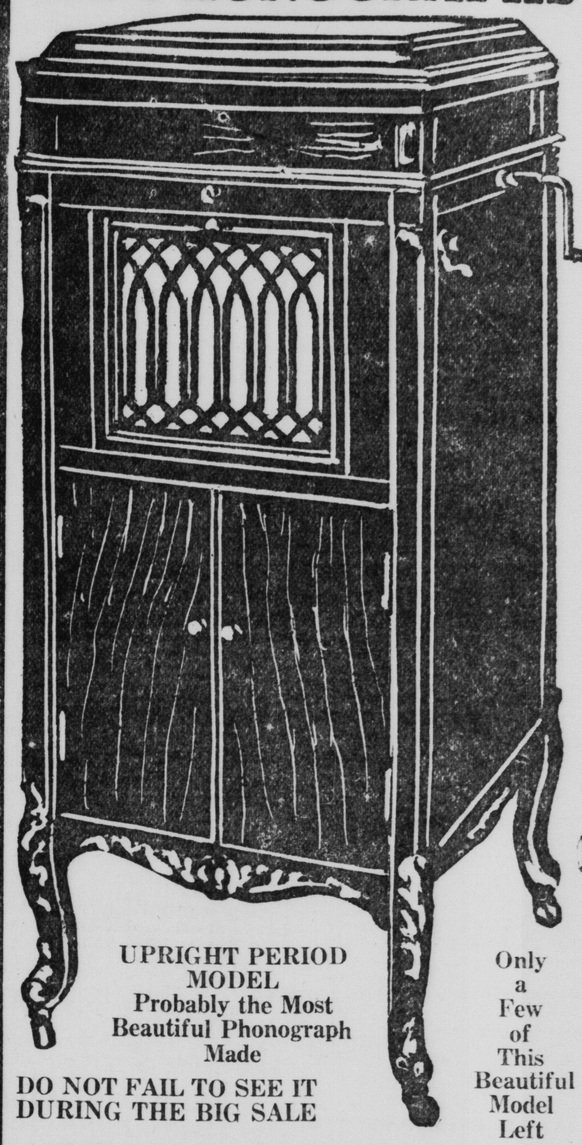

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8.—Unnerved by a second dynamite move against him, Morris Billingkoff, known as "Young Montreal", Rhode Island pugilist, today cancelled his bout next Friday at Bayonne, N. J., with George Mack.

On the heels of the attempt to dynamite "Young Montreal's" poolroom in the Crown hotel, came an attempt last night to blow up his home here.

The Piazza was blown into the street, windows were shattered and the entire north end was shaken by the blast, but there were no casualties.

Every man's home is his castle; which is just another way of saying he doesn't question the character of the hash.

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief.

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants.

All Is Ready At Enon Valley

Expect Hundreds To Attend County Convention On Thursday

NOTABLE PROGRAM HAS BEEN ARRANGED

From all indications there will be an unusually good attendance at the 89th convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association at the Enon Valley Presbyterian church tomorrow, morning, afternoon and evening sessions. The entire program is of a constructive and inspirational nature, and the address of the evening by Rev. P. H. Welshimer, pastor of the First Christian church of Canton, O., will be on the subject, "Making the Sabbath School Go". This will be especially well received, since Rev. Welshimer has the distinction of having the church with the largest Sabbath school in the United States, which record is due largely to his efforts.

All of the sessions will be run on eastern standard time, the morning session starting at nine a. m., which would be 10 a. m. daylight savings time; the afternoon session at one p. m., which would be two p. m. daylight savings time, and the evening vesper service at seven p. m., which would be eight p. m. daylight savings time. The regular bus leaves in front of the Diamond Lunch on the Diamond at eight a. m., eastern standard time, which would be nine a. m. daylight savings time. As the convention is on eastern standard time, this would put delegates there in time for the morning session opening. Those wishing to go by bus are urged to call 2713 so that it will be known just how many to provide transportation for. The afternoon busses leave at one and 5:30 p. m., eastern standard time, and a special bus will be at the convention church after the evening service.

The meals committee at Enon Valley Presbyterian church are furnishing ample accommodations to serve the delegates with noon and evening meal.

Maintain Steel Production Despite Depressing Factors

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Normal production of the steel mills in the Pittsburgh district is being well sustained despite several depressing factors, a survey of the more important mills showed.

Steel company officials believe the present decline in demand for pipe and other material used in the oil fields is only temporary, and that it will disappear within a few months.

At present the best demand is for materials used in highways construction, such as reinforcing iron bars and steel plates. Leaders of the industry say the automobile trade still is very irregular.

Rain And Cold Weather Hit State Employment

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8.—An unprecedented period of rain and cold weather during the latter half of May was reflected in most lines of industrial employment, Charles A. Waters, secretary of labor and industry said today in making public the reports of the various employment offices throughout the state.

Workers furloughed or dismissed on outside projects unable to continue because of rain joined the ranks of those endeavoring to secure inside employment. Resultant unemployment was felt in most retail lines.

Railroad centers continue to report but little activity. There has been no increase in the demand for men and cities like Altoona report continued force reductions and furloughs.

Although the state construction program for highways should have been under full swing at present rain has delayed the start and progress on many projects.

Scranton reports conditions in the building and construction lines on the upgrade but in the majority of cities subnormal conditions have been made worse by the weather.

The metal and metal products industries in the Pittsburgh district report a small demand for skilled workers. The condition reflects some improvement but is reported as far below normal.

The bituminous sections report optimistic hopes for the future because of the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision on freight rates but as yet there have been no additional demands for workers.

Conditions in the anthracite fields also were below normal and miners and mine laborers continue to seek employment in other lines. Completion of the Marshwood coal breaker is expected to result in the employment of about 500 men.

Clothing and textile industries show little improvement, especially in the larger cities where the majority of the clothing is made.

Hotels and restaurants except in the Scranton district report business greatly affected by the weather. There has been little demand for workers in those lines and the hotels in several of the larger cities have been furloughing workers.

CLOROX cleanses toilet bowls

Good housekeepers insist upon having the toilet bowl clean and white. They know that this is the first and most important step in keeping the bathroom sanitary and free from odor. By using Clorox according to directions on label of bottle, it is easy for the modern home keeper to accomplish this, for Clorox disinfects and deodorizes while cleansing.

College Alumni Enjoy Banquet

J. C. Gilfillan Presides At Annual Gathering Of Westminster Grads

J. ROY MERCER NEW PRESIDENT

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8.—Alumni day, a charming occasion for the average college grad, was observed at Westminster College Tuesday and several hundred grads found time and means to answer the urge to visit the scene of their college days on this, the 75th anniversary commencement of the United Presbyterian school.

Probably at no commencement in the past has such an optimistic and happy expression been displayed by the grads and friends of the college. The old school, lacking material structure because of the destruction of Old Main by fire early January 24, 1927, had rather an odd appearance to the former students, many of whom came from distant states. These folks, admirers and loyal friends of the school, were saddened by the desolate spot formerly occupied by the historic building, but their hearts were gladdened with the knowledge that steps have been taken whereby the Westminster College of the future will far excel the Westminster of the past in physical structure, with the same old Westminster spirit pervading its halls and instilled in the hearts of the students of the past and the future.

Visitors for the occasion arrived Monday afternoon and evening with the major influx early Tuesday. On arrival the grads were registered at the alumni office in the vestibule of the Sunday school room of the U. P. church.

Without much ado the first meeting of the day, that of the building committee to open bids for the Old Main Memorial, was held in the Conservatory of Music at eight a. m. The evening previous the same committee had met to open bids for the Robert Audley Browne memorial dormitory. At 10 a. m. the recommendations of the building committee were considered and acted upon by the board of trustees.

Promptly at noon, as the board adjourned, Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the college, announced that the contracts had been let and that work on the new buildings would proceed at once.

With word of the action of the board of trustees ringing in their ears, the grads enjoyed the alumni dinner in the parlors of the U. P. church to the utmost. A sumptuous dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

Following the serving of the dinner a balanced program was rendered, with J. Clyde Gilfillan of New Castle, president of the alumni association, acting as toastmaster. The speakers were: F. A. Hover of New Castle, T. C. Cochran of Mercer and Dr. Wallace. Miss Mabel King of Pittsburgh sang, while Miss Elberta Kagy of the music department rendered several violin solos.

The committee responsible for the banquet which, was attended by about 210, was composed of Atty. Homer C. Drake of New Castle, chairman; Atty. Clyde Gibson of New Castle, Dr. W. D. Cleland of New Castle, Rankin Johnston, Miss Janette Shafer, Mrs. A. L. Wible and Mrs. A. A. McDonald, the latter four of New Wilmington. The committee in charge of decorations was composed of Mrs. C. C. Adams, Caroline Jones, Rachel Stevenson, Dr. Hugh Hart and Arthur Kirkbride of New Wilmington.

Following the banquet the annual business meeting was held. New officers were elected. They are: J. Roy Mercer of New Wilmington, president; Attorney James A. Stranahan of Mercer, vice president; Miss May McKelvey of New Wilmington, recording secretary; H. T. Getty of New Wilmington, treasurer, and Miss Ina Hanna of New Wilmington, corresponding secretary. Retiring officers are J. Clyde Gilfillan of New Castle, president; Dr. H. H. Donaldson of Pittsburgh, vice president, and Mrs. Harry A. Black of Mercer, recording secretary. Miss Hanna and Mr. Getty were re-elected to their respective offices.

Kills Man With Large Butcher Knife

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Mrs. Margaret Thompkinson, 30 of Coney Island, didn't believe her husband, George Thompkinson, also 30, a cook, when he returned home at 1:30 this morning, saying he had been working.

She accused him of "cheating." She became so furious she seized an eight-inch bread knife and plunged it into his side, severing an artery. Within five minutes he was dead.

The woman, mother of two children, was arrested. The police investigated and found that the story the husband told his wife was true.

JUNE BRIDES AND BISCUITS

"June Brides and Biscuits" doesn't sound quite as well as "June Brides and Roses." But roses cease with June, whereas biscuits must be provided in a seeming never ending supply. Brides of last year know that good biscuits are just as important the eleven months of the year as roses for the June bride. Of course our home furnishing department offers kitchen equipment that assures you the very best results.

UNLICENSED DOGS ARE BEING SHOT

MERCER, Pa., June 8.—Agent of the bureau of animal husbandry of Pennsylvania for Mercer and Crawford counties Harry Higbee, of Stoneboro, was in town today killing dogs reported running at large without license.

Higbee states that after January 1, 1928, his labors will be made easier by the law becoming effective at that time that dogs found in the field with livestock or running loose after sundown may be shot by anyone without fear of arrest or damage. The fact that they may be licensed will be no protection, states Higbee.

Robert Elliott Speer, the new moderator of the Northern Presbyterian General Assembly, is a Pennsylvanian, educated for the ministry at Princeton and Princeton Theological Seminary, who, nevertheless, never has been pastor of a church, although he has had the degree of D. D. conferred upon him by the University of Edinburgh. His fame rests on his ability as an administrator, first of the foreign missionary interests of the Presbyterian church, and second on his aid, as an author and as a speaker of great eloquence and power, in the enlistment and education of young people of all denominations in the propaganda work of Protestant Christianity in non-Christian lands. This work he has done largely in connection with the student volunteer movement, the Northfield conference and by his tours of the world as a missionary administrator.

New Castle Sending Letters To "Lindy"

Several letters of greeting to Colonel Lindbergh were received yesterday and this morning at the New Castle post office to be sent by air mail to Washington as a welcome to Lindbergh when he lands there Saturday, June 11, according to E. W. Crawford, acting postmaster at the local post office.

Since "Slim" is a member of the United States mail force it has been suggested by the postmaster general that a fitting form of greeting would be a letter sent to Washington by air mail. The postmaster general promises special handling at Washington so that the letters will be delivered promptly to the hero of the air.

Those who send such letter of greetings should address them "Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, care of Postmaster General, Washington, D. C." Place ten cents postage on the letter and have it marked "via air mail only." The letter may be deposited in any mail box of the department.

It is likely that several hundred such letters will be received at the New Castle post office within the next few days.

Zoning Board Meets Tuesday

Six Appeals Are Heard; Two Granted, One Refused; Three Held Over

FURTHER FACTS TO BE SECURED

Board of zoning appeals in monthly session Tuesday afternoon, heard six appeals from the decision of the city engineer in the matter of granting permits and granted two of the appeals, refused one and held over the remaining three for further consideration.

Attorney Frank A. Hover, member of the board was unable to be present due to the festivities at Westminster college, including the fortieth reunion of his class and Matthew Gunton, chairman and Mrs. Florence Pearson heard the cases.

Appeals granted were those of L. F. Genkinger, city councilman, and C. P. McElroy. Mr. Genkinger sought permission to enclose the one-half of his front porch in glass, which was refused because of the fact that it is contrary to the provisions of the zoning ordinance in residence districts. There being no opposition, the appeal was granted.

C. P. McElroy sought a certificate of occupancy or permission to conduct a business other than permitted in a local business district at 1233 East Washington street. The building in question, it was shown at the hearing had formerly been used as a public garage for the storage of automobiles. Mr. McElroy sought to conduct an automobile repair shop in the place and was refused a permit by the city engineer. A Mr. Bailey was present in opposition to the granting of the appeal but on examination before the board, it developed that his opposition was largely on account of having been refused a permit for a commercial garage. The board granted the appeal of Mr. McElroy and he will be permitted to operate the repair shop in the building which is in the rear of his property.

The appeal of J. Thomas Scott of 909 Harrison street, who was refused permission by the city engineer to construct a dwelling at the rear of his property and facing an alley, was also refused by the board of zoning appeals. It developed during the hearing that in the residence district in which Mr. Scott resides, that it is required that there be at least 4,000 square feet of space for each home or family. His lot is only 4,600 square feet in extent, very little more than the amount required for one house and for that reason, his appeal was refused.

Among the three cases held over for further consideration, was that of Aarel Ferdu of 614 Arlington avenue, who sought permission to construct a dwelling to the property line in a B residence district, where a building line of twenty feet is required. While there was no opposition presented at the hearing, the board held the matter up for further investigation and consideration.

Action was also withheld by the board in the case of M. F. Gosnell of 807 Butler avenue, who has previously been refused permission by the city engineer, to construct a building, thirty by fifty feet in size, facing the alley in the rear of his property, for use as a storage place for furnaces. Opposition was expressed at the hearing by two residents on the opposite of the alley. The reason for which the permit was originally refused was that under the zoning regulations no buildings for business or other purposes may be constructed on properties in a residence district nearer than sixty feet of a local business district which it may adjoin. The board will give the matter further consideration before arriving at a decision.

The case of Alfonso Scarazzo, who desires to enclose the one-half of the front porch of his proposed fine residence at 216 Hazelcroft avenue, and which extends in front of the street building line, was also held over. There was no opposition expressed at the hearing but the board of zoning appeals desired to make a further investigation of the matter before taking action.

Price Of Land To Be Determined By Set Of Viewers

Harry M. Thompson, P. H. McClenahan and J. P. Buchanan, road supervisors of Pulaski township, reported that they desired to purchase land of H. W. Michael in Pulaski for the erection of a tool house, but that they had been unable to agree with Michael on a price. Judge Hildebrand appointed William McElwee, Jr., Thomas J. Gilkey and A. Clyde Shoaff, as viewers to fix the price of the land which the township seeks to condemn.

Musical Party At Y. W. C. A. Tuesday

At the Y. W. C. A. auditorium Tuesday evening, the general public looked in on a most interesting activity in the Patterson School of Music. A group of boys and girls seated upon the stage, gave those present an illustration of what modern teaching of music in our best conservatories can do for the child who is possessed of just an average talent. The activities included not only solo playing but ear training, memory work, singing, sight reading, the development of rythm, and the use of percussion instruments, drums, triangles, bells, castanets, tambourines etc. One of the features was the double number played by the teacher in charge, Miss Sikes, at the piano, and the children in the rythm orchestra.

Another interesting feature was the sample lesson using the printed text material which is a part of the regular wark.

A competitive examination followed this activity the highest grade being made by Gertrude Weschler, who was awarded a two pound box of candy.

Mr. Cone of Philadelphia who with his guest teachers is introducing new methods and ideas to the schools and conservatories east of the Mississippi river, gave an interesting talk on the "Value of Music," as a cultural study and the necessity of giving children who show little or no talent a chance to develop by training what they lack in inheritance.

Those who took active part in the program were Martha Shaffer, Jane Kannenberg, Margaret Williams, Wanda Hanna, James Fox, Violet Simonton, Betty Bridenbaugh, Marian Cotton, Rosina Gebbia, Vera Simmonton, Lois Marian Smith, Jean Snyder, Ernest McMullen, Gertrude Weschler, Laura Post, Dorothy Sankey, Georgia Parker, Phyllis Woodworth, Lena Silverman, William Fox, Ross Bridenbabich and Emily Reynolds.

Motor Cop Shoots Croton Avenue Dog

A dog frothing at the mouth and to all appearance in the first stages of the rabies, was discovered seated on the porch of the Q. A. McBride home on Croton avenue, this morning. Motorcycle Officer Ray Richards was detailed and after considerable trouble, put an end to the dog by shooting it. It was necessary to knock the animal from the porch with a chair in order to get it where it was possible to shoot it without endangering the lives of others.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Footloose

By Claire Wesson

ANNA was the only one awake in the gypsy camp. Softly, with blanket over her arm, bare feet grateful for the cool pine needles, she walked out of earshot of the tent, walked into the dim star-lit woods until she could no longer hear the heavy uneven snoring of the men or the faint threshing noises of the sleeping children. She liked to get away from them at night, to lie by herself and stare up at the sky over whose pale face the leaves threw a black lacy pattern.

The gypsies had camped on the outskirts of a village. To the left of the woods where they had pitched tent stretched a field, lush green and waiting for the scythe. Anna could hear the drowsy Midsummer night hum of a thousand small insects in the damp grass. On her right, over the brow of the pine knoll, a white dusty road wound its way to the village and to other villages.

One village after another. Anna mused bitterly. On and on over smoothly-graded back State roads or over little country roads plushy with dust. One-night stands. Or, at best, camping for a week to sell baskets and read palms. Then lighting out again with a little money and a car half filled with vegetables, sometimes pillaged from neighboring farms.

How she hated this foot-loose, care-free, lazy life! She pressed her hot cheek against the hard piney ground. When she was younger it had not been so bad. True, she had always stared wistfully at small girls in clean dresses walking arm in arm along the sidewalks or romping in back yards. But as a dirty gypsy child no one had paid much attention to her. But now that she had grown up—now that she was tall and her hair yellow and thick and long, her cheeks pink and white—people stared in the streets. Especially men. Lately she often caught old Jan and Tina watching her furtively, then looking in each other's eyes significantly.

Then there was David. What a scene there had been with Tina when Anna had refused to have David!

"Has he not the biggest and best car of any of us?" shouted old Tina angrily. "Are his pockets not full? No? And what are you waiting for, fool?"

"I want a house," stormed Anna. "I want a white house with grass and flowers around it and curtains at the windows. I want to live in one place always and never see a road again. Never! Never!" She cried passionately, stamping her old broken shoes.

"She wants a house," mocked Tina. "A house with clean curtains!"

And the rest of the tribe laughed until tears came to their eyes. All but old Jan, who shook his head thoughtfully and muttered:

"Blood will out."

Blood will out. Anna often wondered about that. What did he mean?

She rose from her piney bed restlessly. She could not sleep tonight. On noiseless feet she crept away from the encampment and down the road towards the village. There was no moon but the stars were bright and thick and close to the earth. The road stretched plainly ahead, now flanked with black pointing trees, now skirting a broad field. Behind her the dying fire of the gypsy camp burnt in a faint red ring on the pine knoll.

Anna often started out like this after the gypsies were asleep. They went to bed at dusk and it was easy to creep away to a neighboring village, to walk in the dusky friendliness of a tree-lined street, keeping always in the shadows. She had often stood for hours, staring wistfully into yellow lamplit rooms where she could glimpse books, bits of polished china, and sometimes a flower-decked table, gleaming with silver. Lights would go out downstairs and flare again in the upper windows. Before the curtains were drawn she could see the beds, white and soft-looking. Then she would creep back to camp, pull her dirty gray blanket around her shoulders and lie there in the darkness with a lump in her throat.

House after house that she passed tonight had drawn curtains, or the shrubbery was so thick she could not see through. A mingling of scents come to her nostrils—newly mown lawns, syringa, roses, damp earth and the pungent oil that had sprinkled the street. She stopped at last in front of a house whose living room windows threw yellow oblongs on the lawn. A man and a woman sat reading on each side of a lamp. The woman was old and white-haired but the man was young. A boy, really.

There was something vaguely familiar about him that puzzled Anna. She slipped up the path to get a better view.

"Why," she thought in startled surprise, "he looks like me!"

As though conscious of her gaze the young man stirred uneasily and lifted his head as though he were listening. Anna crouched down, her heart suffocating with the fear that he may have seen her. But when she looked again he was reading calmly.

Drawn as though by a magnet, the girl approached the window, her hungry eyes drinking in every detail. The bright chintz draperies. The polished wood. The softly shaded lamp. A little wood fire snapped on the hearth, for the Summer night had an edge of cold in it.

A loneliness as sharp as physical pain caught her as she stood there in the fragrant garden. Quick tears started to her eyes, a sob burst from her throat. As she raised her hand to brush the tears from her eyes, a white-haired woman moved her head, put her sewing a little to one side and glanced out the window.

Anna watched her get to her feet unsteadily, saw the blood drain from her face, saw her start toward the window—and waited for no more. She rushed to the street like a ragged and breathless little shadow and sped out of the village towards the gypsy encampment.

In the bright room she left consternation. The white-haired woman was crying softly.

"Your mother, John," she murmured brokenly. "I saw her face out there in the garden. So white and tear-stained. Just as she looked for a year after the baby was lost. She used to sit in the garden for hours for that was the last place she saw the baby—playing out there."

After she had gone to bed the boy sat until the fire was gray and dead on the hearth. Queer, but he had felt someone out there in the garden. But of course it couldn't be. His baby sister—what had happened? All he knew was that she had disappeared; that a band of gypsies had been seen on the outskirts of the village the night before. He shivered a little and started upstairs.

As Anna neared the encampment consternation lent swiftness to her feet, for the pine knoll was ablaze and the frantic gypsies were hastily loading their cars, trying to swamp out the blaze as they worked. A breeze had fanned the coals to conflagration.

"Hurry, Anna, hurry!" cried old Tina. "If they catch us they'll think we did it on purpose."

Crouched in a corner of the old car, her eyes closed, Anna repeated the name of the town over and over as they sped away from the reddening skyline. Bashan, Bashan. She would remember. Some day she would go back.

Paid With Interest

By Margaret Taylor

TIM ELLSWORTH'S prophecy had come true. Young Wallace McLean, after a two years' absence, had returned home and come into his own.

It had happened this way. Wallace McLean, the lumber king, was young Wally's father, Tim Ellsworth, foreman of the whole works, was a very privileged character with "the boss," due to the fact that they had been kids together, had gone swimming in the same "ole hole" and had fought the same battles. Tim had been taken on at the lumber works for auld lang syne. This muscular, raw-boned foreman was permitted to tell the lumber king a good many things which he would never have tolerated from anybody else.

On this particular day, Tim had found Wallace, Senior, sitting at his desk with both hands stretched over a mass of crumpled papers, his fine, piercing black eyes staring into space. He laid a brown hand on the slender shoulder.

"Worryin' over Wally again, ain't ye?" said Tim.

"I can't help it," was the reply. "This is the third college he has been politely requested to leave, and look here"—he indicated the mass of crumpled papers before him—"about 50 odd unpaid bills, and a couple of dozen court orders."

"Wal, I tell ye what, Wally," drawled the foreman bluntly, "it's your own fault, yours an' the old lady's. I told ye that before. The way you've pampered that boy, it's a wonder he ain't been hung. You give him enough kale to buy the Common, an' then you wonder why he don't stay home nights. You surround him with butlers and valets, and then wonder why he can't tie his own shoe-string. Twenty-three is it that he is? Wal, by now he ought to be supportin' a family."

McLean's little secretary lowered her bright head to hide the flush that suffused her face and neck. Click, click, click went her typewriter. Downcast eyes on the paper. Keen brain alert. She had been trained to hear everything without appearing to listen.

"His mother would die if he married," put in McLean.

"Sure, she would," agreed Ellsworth. "Most mothers do when they only got one. She is thinkin' of keepin' him tied to her apron strings all his life? We had six, and their mother was glad when one of 'em married. So many less stockings to darn, says she. We done for 'em till they were 21. They was fed, clothed, an' eddicated. When they was 21, I gave 'em all in turn 100 bucks, and says to 'em, 'Now vamoose. An' this here money ain't a gift. It's a loan. I expect it paid back with interest two years from now. Ef ye get sick or broke, ye know whar I be.' There's one kid left yet, but I got back $500 with interest so far, and then some. You know 'em, Wally."

McLean nodded.

"I know," he sighed. "You have a splendid set of sons. But I couldn't do that with my boy. He wouldn't know what to do with himself."

The old foreman shrugged his shoulders.

That night, Wallace McLean, Jr., had not slept in his bed, and Edith Whipple, private secretary did not appear at her desk the next morning. Instead Papa McLean received a night letter. It stated:

"Edith and I have vamoosed. Were married at midnight. Sold one of your flivs for 100 bucks. Will return money with interest in two years also bills on your desk if you will please list. Tell mother not to worry. Will wire address. Wally."

McLean, Senior, fumed. Foreman Ellsworth slapped his big knee in approval.

"Good for the kids!" he bellowed. "They got more sense than you got, Wally. I got to hand it to 'em."

"Yes," stormed McLean, "and I lost the best secretary I ever had."

"You—you—you," spluttered his foreman. "Stop thinkin' about yourself, and think about the kid. He's got her now, an' he needs her a sight more'n you do."

That had happened two years ago to a day. Big Ellsworth had just driven them home, Wallace, himself, Edith, his wife, and tiny Wallace Junior, exactly two months old. At the door of his father's house, Wallace had turned to wring Tim's hand.

"I've come to pay back my debt to my father, Tim," he stated. "I owe it all to you."

The Sewing Seven

By Phil Moore

LITTLE Mrs. Hastings cast an approving eye around her cosy, inviting living room. Everything was in readiness for the ladies, for it was little Mrs. Hastings' turn to entertain the "Sewing Seven."

It was more than two years now since they had first organized. From September to June they had met in one another's homes, and their relationship had been most pleasant.

Never had there been a rift in the lute until last meeting; little Mrs. Hastings sighed as she thought of it.

For this very moment did not three letters of resignation repose on her library table? And was it not her painful duty as president of the club to read them this same afternoon?

She glanced at the clock. The ladies would not begin to arrive for 15 minutes.

"Well," she told herself, "I've done everything in my power to meet this emergency, and I trust to providence for the result."

And indeed the little woman had most surely done her part, for never had she taken such pains with her sandwich filling. And never had her cakes been lighter, or her chocolate more creamy. To say nothing of the little surprise she had provided for the socal time while the ladies were being served their refreshments.

She sat down in the green rocker by the window, where she could glimpse them coming down the walk. Across the street a small boy waved his hand to her. She raised the window and called to him.

"Be here at 4 sharp, Billy, and don't forget your book, dear."

"I won't forget. I'll be there at 4, Auntie Hastings." The small boy smiled at her warmly.

"He's a dear child," said the woman. "Now if I only could manage those ladies as easily." Such an absurd thing they had quarreled over, and such good friends they had all been, too. A silly, ridiculous quarrel over children.

Now everyone in the two towns agreed that Mrs. Thompson's two girls were as sweet and lovely as girls could be. And everyone knew that Mrs. Jennings' two boys were honest, manly and fine. And it was an acknowledged fact that the Hughes twins, Herbert and Hester, were the very best twins in the whole world.

As for the other four ladies, including little Mrs. Hastings, they had no children to quarrel over. But they dearly loved the Thompsons' and the Jennings' and the Hughes' children, without a thought of playing favorites.

It had been during the social hour at Mrs. Thompson's home last week that a carelessly dropped word had started the whole fuss.

Mrs. Thompson had been serving cake. "The girls made this cake," she had said, "and I know you will think it most delicious. They are such dears. I was telling my husband only this morning that I think we have the best children in the world."

"That's exactly what I said to Mr. Jennings about the boys." Mrs. Jennings had answered. "Somehow, it's easy for girls to be good, but boys have so many more temptations to meet. Now, my boys are so wholesome and good-natured and, as I said, I told Mr. Jennings I think we have the best children to be found anywhere."

"I don't think it's so easy for girls to be good," Mrs. Thompson had snapped. "I think they have more temptations than boys. What do you think, Mrs. Hughes, since you have a boy and a girl? And don't you think my girls are just splendid?"

"Well, don't you think my boys are just fine?" had asked Mrs. Jennings.

"I think," Mrs. Hughes had answered, "that boys and girls have equal temptations. I have always been fond of your girls, Mrs. Thompson, and your boys, Mrs. Jennings. But I must say that I have never seen such devoted, unselfish children as my twins. It may seem egotistical, but I cannot help but admit I don't think they have an equal anywhere."

"That's what I think about mine," Mrs. Thompson had bristled.

"And what I know about mine," blazed Mrs. Jennings."

There had been rather strained good-bys, and the meeting had been broken up rather hastily, and for the first time in the history of the club, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Jennings and Mrs. Hughes, had walked home alone.

And the very next morning, little Mrs. Hastings had received the resignations. It had troubled her greatly, until she had hit upon a plan.

Now with the ladies coming up the front stairs, she just prayed that this plan would be successful.

The ladies had sewed as industriously as usual, and little Mrs. Hastings' repast had somewhat broken the constraint. But still there were those three dreadful letters to read if her scheme fell through. Little Mrs. Hastings almost held her breath.

"I thought," she said pleasantly, "that instead of my reading a paper this afternoon I'd ask the minister's little son, Billy, to read for us. He reads just beautifully for a little boy of 6. Will you read that little story you read for Auntie Hastings last week, dear?"

There was a murmur of approval at this, and Billy, a stubby finger to guide him, read in a clear childish voice.

"'Good-morning, Mrs. Squirrel; are your children good children?' said Mrs. Robin.

"'Good children,' said Mrs. Squirrel, 'they are the best children in the world.'

"'They are not,' said Mrs. Robin, 'my children are the best children.'

"'Come, Mrs. Cow,' said Mrs. Squirrel, 'Mrs. Robin says her children are the best. Tell me, who has the best children in the world?'

"'I will tell you,' said Mrs. Cow, 'I have the best children in the world.'

"'You have not,' said Mrs. Squirrel.

"'You have not,' said Mrs. Robin.

"A wise old crow who sat in a tree near by heard the quarrel. She flew over to Mrs. Squirrel's tree.

"Don't quarrel, good mothers,' she said. 'I will tell you who has the best children in the world. Every mother thinks her children are the best, and she is right; they are the best to her.'

The childish treble paused. Three pairs of twinkling eyes met the twinkling eyes of little Mrs. Hastings.

It was Mrs. Thompson who broke the silence.

"I ask Mrs. Robin's and Mrs. Crow's pardon," she chuckled.

"And we yours, Mrs. Squirrel," two voices responded promptly.

"Where," chirped in Billy, "is the wise old crow?"

"You blessed darling!" Mrs. Hughes picked him up in her arms and held him close. "The wise old crow is out in the kitchen burning up resignations."

A little girl was spending her first night from home. As the darkness gathered she began to cry.

The hostess asked, "Are you homesick?"

"No," she answered, "I'm heresick."

A Wet Proposition

By Clyde Weldon

IT was 7 a. m., daylight saving time, when Prohibition Officer Legge and a couple of his retainers swooped down on Mrs. Bootle's poor little store. Mrs. Bootle, being keen of discernment, correctly guessed the nature of their visit.

Did her ruddy face then blanch with the apprehension that attends a conscience of dubious purity? Not hers! Her demeanor was one of imperturbability as the intruders declared their intention to search her premises.

Not so unperturbed would she look when their search was over, Prohibition Officer Legge reflected. Mrs. Bootle might not have a large stock on hand, but there would be enough for a conviction. Information had come to headquarters from a reliable source and Prohibition Officer Legge was confident of success.

With excessive energy he and his men set to work to disturb the dust on the shelves of the none-too-tidy store. They flashed lights into dim corners, they felt, smelled and shook anything that might contain the prohibited more than one-half of one per cent. They exhausted the possibilities of the store for a hiding place, yet nothing of an incriminating nature rewarded their efforts. Prohibition Officer Legge, however, was not daunted. Mrs. Bootle's living quarters was upstairs. Curtly he requested that she take them there.

"The place is an awful mess." Mrs. Bootle apologized, leading the way up the narrow stairway.

Though a mussed-up kitchen met the gaze of the officers, it did not lessen their zeal. With enthusiasm they repeated the downstairs performance then through a gaudy dining-living room and through sundry dark closets and pantries they rummaged.

Without displaying any ill feeling, Mrs. Bootle watched the added disorder being created in her more or less disordered home. On the contrary, she evinced a desire to be helpful, and once or twice lent a hand at opening a stubborn cupboard door.

One door only remained unopened, and as Prohibition Officer Legge eyed it askance, Mrs. Bootle laid a finger to her lips.

"S-s-sh!" she cautioned. "My little girls sleep there. They'll get scared if you go in. Let me wake 'em and get 'em dressed first."

Prohibition Officer Legge visualized childish faces flushed with sleep, "waking to find their bedroom invaded by the majesty of the law. In poetic parlance, his tender heart smote him. He nodded assent to Mrs. Bootle. She entered the bedroom and shut the door behind her.

Immediately Prohibition Officer Legge ordered one of his men to station himself in the backyard beneath the window of that room. He was taking no chances! Much evidence, he knew, had been destroyed ere this by being poured out through a window.

Having taken this precaution, he and his remaining retainer proceeded to enjoy the conversation between Mrs. Bootle and her children, which came distinctly from behind the closed door.

"Aw, gee, ma, I don't wanna get up. It's awful early."

"Where's my stockin's? I lef' em here! Yes I did! I know you, Lizzie, you took 'em on me. Where's my stockin's?"

"Won't wear this old dress. No, I won't! I won't!"

"Oh, ma, Flora punched me! Ma—a!"

And Mrs. Bootle:

"Now stop that squabblin' this minit. Here's them stockin's. Come, Flora, help your sisters dress. Snap into it before I give you the beatin' o' your life. I'll box your ears, all o' you!" and so on.

Occasionally comes a squeal from one who had suffered at the hands of the maternal parent, accompanied by the clatter of shoes on the uncarpeted floor.

Eventually the turmoil subsided, and the door opened. Framed in the doorway stood Mrs. Bootle her four little daughters clustered around her. Their ages ranged from 6 to 12 years. Snubnosed, belligerent-looking little girls they were, but clad daintily in clean, stiffly starched dresses, which stood out from their little bodies with airy grace. From under these dresses which were childishly short, immaculate white petticoats peeped demurely.

"Swell kids you got!" P. O. Legge remarked. "Sorry to have woke them so early."

Mrs. Bootle beamed with what may be termed pardonable pride. She gently shoved her little ones before her into the kitchen. The men entered the bedroom.

As in the other rooms so here did they search carefully and completely. The man who had been stationed beneath the window rejoined his companions. Together they conceived of hiding places remarkable for their ingenuity. Yet none of these was productive of results. P. O. Legge's confidence was ebbing fast. At length he was forced to admit failure.

"Nothing doing today, I guess, boys!" he said ruefully.

No look of exultation changed the calm of Mrs. Bootle's face at this intelligence. Unhurriedly she disentangled herself from among her clinging daughters, and escorted her visitors down to the store and out of the front door.

At their departure, a number of neighbors gathered around Mrs. Bootle, and fain would she have enlarged upon the morning's event, but a childish voice recalled her upstairs.

As she reached the top the smallest of her brood greeted her in a querulous voice:

"Ma, take that petticoat offa me. It's awfu' heavy!"

Mrs. Bootle's ruddy face broadened into a grin. Though she had so recently dressed them, she now proceeded to undress her daughters. As she removed the petticoats she turned them inside out. Thus she was enabled to view with satisfaction the three strongly reinforced pockets which adorned each garment. For, unsuspected by P. O. Legge, in each pocket reposed one pint bottle full, undiluted.

Incidentally, Mrs. Bootle's own voluminous underskirts were more prolific.

"Supposing you were going fifty miles down hill, with a stone wall at the bottom of it, and your brakes failed, what would you do?"

Chauffeur—"Nothing, ma'am. It's done."

"I've just paid the doctor $10 on our bill."

She (with the new baby in her arms)—"Good! Two more payments and the baby is ours."

A Honeymoon Poisoned

By Monte Darrell

IN the back of the car and distributed about it in various places of convenience was a brand new camping outfit.

On the front seat sat a brand new bride and groom, not yet 24 years old.

"I think," the little bride was saying, "that this will be the most wonderful honeymoon a couple ever had."

"Do you, really?" queried the brand new husband, eagerly. "When I first thought of the plan I hardly dared speak about it to you. I was afraid you would rather have New York or Washington—"

"New York! Washington! Oh, no," she cried.

"I think you are the most wonderful girl," he began.

The little bride laughed. "Oh, Neil! You've told me that so often! But, of course, you do mean it or you would never have married me!" Then she added, seriously: "Do you think we can make camp by night?"

"Sure of it! I know just where I'm going. Long before I ever dreamed you'd marry me I used to think how wonderful it would be if you should fall for me and we could come away alone—like this. It's a beautiful spot. You'll see!"

At nightfall they pitched their tent in the very lap of the mountains that had just begun to purple in the rays of the setting sun.

"Like it?" he asked.

"Love it!" returned the little wife.

For three days they tramped and fished and hiked, all with the passionate enthusiasm of adventurers. Each day the little bride said: "I love it more and more. Let's not go home until we have to."

Therefore, when, at dinner on the fourth day, she suddenly began to cry, the brand new husband was quite taken by surprise.

"I love it up here, Neil! Love it more than ever! But the mosquitoes! They're eating me up! I think one side of my face is swelling. Isn't it?

Her husband took a hasty survey. "A little puffed," he admitted. "Rub on some salve. That'll fix it."

"Feel better?" he asked.

"I—think—so."

But in the morning she found that she could open her eyes only wide enough to admit a tiny ray of light. She reached under her cot for her vanity case to see what was the matter with her.

What she saw in the little mirror made her shriek aloud in fright. It was as though, some time during the night, a wicked satyr had changed her pretty face with its wide-open brown eyes into an ugly visage, with cheeks swollen to twice their size, eyes that were mere slits and a nose that wasn't a nose at all but a bunion!

Her shriek brought her husband tumbling out of his cot to see the cause of it. But before he could reach her she had hidden her face in the blanket.

"Go away! Go away!" she begged. "You'll never love me again if you see me."

It was a long time before he could persuade her to show the poor, disfigured face. When he saw it he was almost as shocked as she had been.

"I'll get a doctor," he said. "I'll ride into town for one. It can't be anything serious, though."

When the doctor came, he took one look at his patient and said, "Poison ivy."

"Perhaps it is," sobbed the little bride, "although I don't know it when I see it. I picked some pretty, shiny leaves—"

"I guess the pretty shiny leaves are to blame, then," he laughed. "You'll have to sit pretty for a week until the poison clears up. I'll leave you some lotion to rub on. It's all I can do. If you don't get better I'll come again."

Nobody could have waited on anybody more patiently than the brand new husband did upon his sick little bride. She tried her best not to fuss when the poison tore at her with its itching, smarting, burning fingers. She only cried softly to herself. But no matter how softly she did it, he heard her and and was there to comfort her. She kept her face hidden from him all she could. She couldn't bear to have him see her so ugly, so undesirable!

Each morning she awoke and stealthily fumbled for her vanity case. For almost a week the same monstrous countenance looked back at her from her mirror, but on the seventh day—oh, joy! she saw herself with the swelling gone. She was human again and crawled out of the tent into the sunlight.

"It's lovelier than ever," she sighed. "I don't ever want to go home."

One morning, early, the groom packed the camping outfit in the rear of the car and the little bride—now her own gay self—took her seat beside him. Reluctantly they turned their backs on the Eden that had its serpent in the shape of shiny, green, poison ivy leaves.

"I'm sorry our honeymoon turned out so badly," he said, "I should have taken you to Washington or New York—"

"Why," she interrupted him, "It was a lovely honeymoon! I wouldn't change it for any other! And you—you were so wondrful. Neil, dear! I wouldn't have blamed you if you had divorced me when you saw me that first morning with the ivy poison. I was—hideous—"

She turned to look back at the place they were rapidly leaving.

"Neil," she said suddenly, "I've had, anyway, a honeymoon that few girls have. Why my dear, it was a poisoned honeymoon, wasn't it?"

"I'll tell the world," he acquiesced.

"Did you meet your wife late in life, Brown?"

Brown—"Well—er—not quite as late as I could have wished."

Litigation Opens On Crawford Will

Bequest To French War Orphans Meets Legal Snag

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 8.—That there is likely to be litigation before the "fatherless children of France" receive the $63,418 left them by the late Dr. John K. Crawford of Cooperstown, appeared certain today.

A rule to show cause has just been granted on the petition of "The Fatherless Children of France, Inc.," of New York City, for the court's permission to take charge of the distribution. It was represented to Judge Parker that the petitioner is a corporation not organized for profit; that it is a recognized agency for this sort of work, and that Dr. Crawford in his lifetime made contributions to it.

Those filing exceptions to the award declare Judge Criswell, as trustee, erred in a number of particulars, most of them hinging on the allegation that the phrase "fatherless children of France," used in the will, is void because of uncertainty or indefiniteness.

There are about 30 boys and girls, orphans of French soldiers, to whom Dr. Crawford during the last years of his life sent checks regularly. Those who knew him believe he had these in mind when he made the will, but failed to name any particular agency through which the fund might be administered.

CATARRH IS LIKE A THIEF IN THE NIGHT

Comes Upon Victims Unsuspected; How World's Tonic Banishes Catarrh

Catarrh comes upon its victims like a thief in the night. Often its presence is not even suspected until it has secured a firm hold. Even then many people do not secure medical help, especially if the disease has not progressed to a point where it causes acute distress, and the ailments continue to gain headway.

The time to fight catarrh is right now. It should not be put off until tomorrow. If left alone the disease may progress to a point where holes are eaten in the roof of the mouth, facial bones decay, resulting in large cavities over which the flesh sinks in, or consumption and death may result. Sooner or later serious consequences nearly always come from catarrh.

Many catarrh sufferers are highly praising World's Tonic for the good it has done them. World's Tonic is a systemic treatment for catarrh and has brought astonishing results in many cases. It relieves distress in the nose and throat almost at once and stops the spread of catarrh, and it also fights catarrh in every source, within the system, and is designed to relieve the system of catarrh entirely.

Lindbergh's Life Story Summarized

By BONITA WITT

Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

Summary of the life of Charles A. Lindbergh based on facts told to the writer by Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh.

Charles A. Lindbergh was born in Detroit, Mich., in 1902.

When a small boy he moved to Little Falls, Minn., where he passed much of his boyhood.

From 1907-1917, when his father Charles A. Lindbergh, was representative in congress from Minnesota, Charles lived in Washington when congress was in session.

It was in Washington in 1910 that young Lindbergh saw his first airplane.

He attended school in Washington and Little Falls and also in Detroit, Mich.

During the war years when Charles was too young to enlist in the army or to enter college, he "worked" his father's farm at Little Falls, making it pay dividends for the first time.

He enrolled in the University of Wisconsin in 1921, taking a mechanical engineering course.

Deciding to become an aviator, Lindbergh left the university after his third semester (one and a half years), going to Lincoln, Neb., where he received his first flying lessons.

As soon as he was able to pilot a plane Lindbergh began to make "gypsy" or "barnstorming" tours, giving exhibitions of stunt flying, wing walking and parachute jumping.

On March 12, 1924 he enrolled as a flying cadet at Brooks-Kelly government flying school at San Antonio, Tex.

Graduated from Brooks-Kelly on March 16, 1925, he went to work for the Mile-Hi Aircraft company Denver, Colo.

A short time later he became chief pilot for the Robertson Aircraft Development Corporation of St. Louis. He is still under contract to them, having been given a leave of absence to make the New York-Paris flight.

While flying the airmail Lindbergh became a captain in the Missour National Guard.

Early in 1926, Lindbergh first began to take an interest in long distance flights.

Deciding to compete for the $25,000 Orteig prize for the first non-stop New York-Paris flight, he secured the financial backing of a group of young St. Louis business men.

While in New York to select a plane for the flight Lindbergh became interested in the performance of a Ryan monoplane.

Going to San Diego, Calif., he enlisted the enthusiasm of B. F. Mahoney, youthful president of the Ryan company.

Remaining in San Diego Lindbergh supervised every detail in the construction of the plane.

When it was completed Capt. Lindbergh flew the monoplane to St. Louis where it was christened the "Spirit of St. Louis" then flew to New York, making the trans-continental trip in record-breaking actual flying time.

Taking off from Roosevelt Field New York on the morning of May 20 he arrived in Paris 33 hours and 29 minutes later.

Received by the ruling heads of France, Belgium and England, with probably the greatest acclaim ever acorded an individual, he was given highest honors possible.

President Coolidge crowned the glories of the other nations by inviting him to journey to Washington on the speedy cruiser "Memphis" to receive the honors of his own nation.

Following which will come mighty celebrations in New York and St. Louis which in addition to Washington, were prepared to be host to the young man who "achieved the impossible."

Aviators Carry No Baggage; Need Some New Clothes

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time and will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

History Students Send Greetings To Capt. Lindbergh

That the students of the Modern History Class of the New Castle Senior High school are up to the minute in events of history is shown by the following letter from the class to Captain Lindbergh.

New Castle, Pa.
June 7, 1927.

Captain Charles A. Lindbergh,
Washington, D. C.

As students of Modern History, we as a class have been studying the progress of man from his earliest stages. We have been interested in those men who have brought forth great progress and development by inventions, attainments, and those who have made it possible for America's close relations with foreign nations.

We have been fortunate enough to live during the life-time of such great men as Woodrow Wilson, Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford.

It is now our lot to be most fortunate in living at the same time of one of the greatest achievements, that of making a non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

Now that it comes to honor and congratulations, they are due you, Captain Lindbergh, in their greatest measure.

Students of the Modern History Class,

Clear, White, Smooth Hands Are Beautiful

Manicuring alone can not make the hands beautiful. The skin itself must be soft, firm, white, and youthful. The easiest way to do this is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, and massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach daily into the hands and arms. It will make even stained, toil-worn hands soft, clear, smooth and white.

All dealers have Orchard White.

GAINED 18 POUNDS

Cleveland, Ohio:—After having my first baby I lost weight no matter what I did. I went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles I weigh 116 pounds. NERVOUS SPELLS GONE

St. Paul, Minn.:—I used to get nervous spells that would last a couple of days and were so bad that I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight. How to Get Pavement That Can't Wear Out and can't run up costly bills

There must be, first a good base—foundation. Then must come a cushion of sand. On top of this the toughest surface to be found—one that can protect the base from all traffic and weather conditions.

Paving brick, being vitrified, is the toughest, densest wearing surface man makes. This surface can't soften under heat; can't undergo chemical change. It can't be damaged by absorbing water and freezing. Moreover, it is built with shock-absorbing resilience. Workmen are surer of a good job in laying this surface—since brick comes from the factory in finished form, tested, ready to put down.

These are reasons why brick is not only the highest-value pavement to be had—but the cheapest of all, as well!

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

Board Decides On Summer Session In Local Schools

Applications Of Three Teachers Are Received By Board At Tuesday Night's Meeting

Extensive Repairing On All Old School Buildings Will Be Done This Summer

ELLWOOD CITY, June 8. — At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education which took place Tuesday evening in their room in the Lincoln school, the members, at the recommendation of Supt. Smith, decided to donate quarters for the purpose of having a six-weeks' session of summer school this summer. All pupils who did not pass their grades this year, can make up their work. A suitable tuition will have to be charged to pay for the teaching.

The resignation of Miss Ethel Henderson was accepted and the following applications were referred to the education committee: Miss Dorothy Heffelman for high school teacher; Miss Ida Cooper, grade school and Gaylor Hardesty, Junior high school.

During the building committee's report, the board seriously discussed the advisability of purchasing a painting machine, as so many of the school buildings are in need of fresh paint. The members of the building committee were instructed to secure bids for the repairing of school roofs, after the various schools have been inspected by Superintendent Smith.

The supply committee reported that they intended to use much money for school supplies next year.

Supt. Smith seemed of the opinion that the school band should be exercised during the summer, and offered the suggestion that this band be combined with the boy scout band, and then all would receive the benefit of the allotment of money from the community chest to the Boy Scouts. Prof. O. E. Bartel will be asked to give a little of his time each week to direct them, and probably give a concert in the fall. The board consented to permit the continued use of the Lincoln school gymnasium for rehearsals.

Supt. Smith in his report stated that the past school year had been very successful, and that the percentage of promotions was gratifyingly high. Twenty-six rooms of pupils did one and one-half year's work, so as to be ready to start semester promotions next year.

The board fixed the date for the opening of School as September 6. Every half term, there will be commencement week, with the usual activities attendant on this period. The advantage of this plan is that students failing, do not miss an entire year, but just a semester.

WESTMINSTER GIRL MAKES FINE RECORD

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8.—Friends of Westminster College, many of whom are now on the college campus enjoying the activities of commencement week, were pleased to learn that Miss Edith Petrie, a graduate of Westminster with the class of 1923, is this year graduating from the medical school at George Washington University with the highest honors of her class. She was valedictorian of her class at Westminster.

It is rare for a young woman to study medicine and worthy of distinction when she tops a class of more than 70, all of whom, with the exception of two, are men. She will take a year's work at Grace hospital, Detroit, and then will start her own practice.

Word of her unusual attainment was brought here by Mr. and Mrs. William Petrie of Washington, D. C., parents of the unusual young lady. Mrs. Petrie is a graduate of the college and enjoyed a short visit with friends Monday afternoon.

Lester Petrie, a son, is a graduate of Westminster with the class of 1924, and has completed three years' work in the medical department at George Washington University. He accompanied his parents here. Miss Helen Petrie, another daughter, is a member of the freshman class of Westminster.

CHRYSLER "60"

differs from any other six of its price

Get behind the wheel—and Chrysler "60" will give you 60 miles and more an hour as long as you care to have it with an ease and lack of effort that can only be described as typically Chrysler.

At high speed, step on the brake—the same simple, safe and sure hydraulic four-wheel brake as on the higher-priced Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80"—and the "60" will gently glide to rest or give you a split-second full-stop for the emergency.

Test Chrysler "60" any way you will. For ease of performance and riding, ease of control and handling, there's no getting away from the fact that the six-cylinder Chrysler "60" — with seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, manifold heat control, impulse neutralizer, oil filter, air cleaner, full pressure lubrication, road levelizers and many other features—is obviously unapproachable value in its price class.

We invite you to drive the "60" and note its outstanding differences on the road. Experience its superiorities and never again will you be content with any car offering less in performance at such price.

Chrysler "60" prices—Touring Car $1075; Club Coupe, $1125; Coach $1145; Roadster (with rumble seat) $1175; Coupe (with rumble seat) $1245; Sedan, $1245.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

OUT OF THE DARK

"Dig in the dirt all you want to and never get your coat soiled! Gee Whillikens, what luck! Seems as though I just can't turn around without getting a spot on or a tear in mine!"

It was true. The very clothes that Peter had on did look considerably the worse for wear as he glanced down on them. Then he remembered something that Mole had said and quickly changed the subject.

"Do you know, I never saw a real live Mole before," declared he. "Tell me, if you spend your life down in the ground, how does it happen that you came to the surface today? Such a dull, cold day as it is, too."

"The duller the day the better for me, my friend. I hate the sunshine—so would you if you lived in darkness—there is something about it that makes me feel as nervous as a cricket. The warmth of it makes my nose dry and then how it does ache. My claws, too, pain me, and knowing all this you can believe 'tis seldom I venture forth when the sun is shining. As for its being cold now, Pooh! I am never chilly. My coat is too warm. I love the dark. I should never have left it, but I came to the top for a good reason, oh, a very good reason, indeed. I am waiting for my rival to pass this way! But there, I mustn't bother you with my troubles. You are a Two-Legs. They wouldn't interest you one bit."

"But they would. Oh, please don't go Mole. You and I are only just beginning to get acquainted. I would like nothing better than to hear all about your affairs! That is, if you don't mind telling me," added he politely.

"Oh, I don't, not at all. If I had anything to be ashamed of, it would be different. Ask any of the underground folk what they think of Matty Mole, and if they don't tell you I am the most fearless fighter of them all, they are not telling the truth. That is why I called Fox a coward. He doesn't fight to win what he desires. He just slinks in and sneaks off while nobody is watching. I don't care who sees me. I want what I want when I want it. I have never lost a scrap yet and I am going to make the Meddling Mike wish he had never been born. What right had he to come courting my girl—I, the champion of the Mole lightweights."

"Goodness me! Have you got a girl? How funny!" Peter giggled, and the sound made Matty Mole very angry, indeed.

"Funny ,is it? Well, if that's the way you feel about it, I shall dig myself in out of your sight. Laugh at me, will you? I'll—I'll—well, I'll not do anything at all, for you are a Two-Legs and larger than I. But I should like to bite off your nose. You are the first one who has made fun of Matty Mole and lived to tell the tale."

"I am sorry, Matty. I wasn't laughing at you, but with you." The boy noticed that the grooves Mole was digging were getting deeper and deeper, and he was afraid the fellow would cover himself up before he could stop him. "It must be lots of fun to have a girl. Is she pretty?"

At once Mole stopped and came toward the boy.

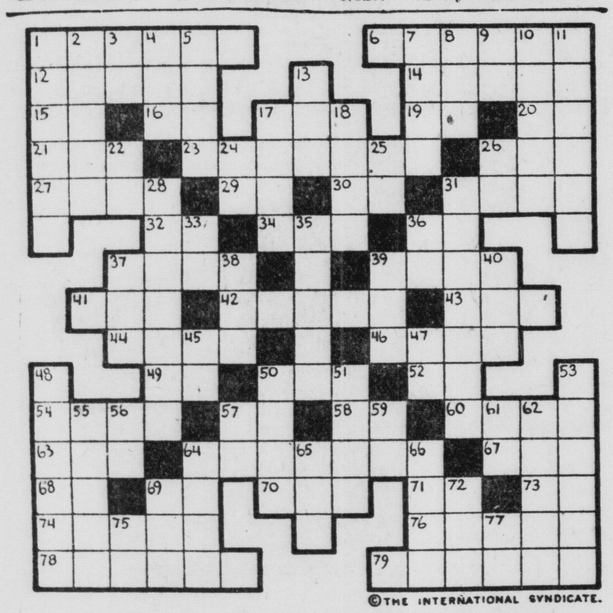

"The prettiest mail in all Moleland," cried he. "Such a gentle disposition as she has. Why, I never saw her cross! And clever? Say, she can tell an earth worm is coming just as well as I can!"

NEW CASTLE TO PLAY ERIE TEAM HERE TODAY

Jamieson Will Oppose Sailors

Locals Hope To Chase Jinx That Has Followed Team All Season

HOFFMAN WILL BE ON THIRD

By "BUGS" WALTHER

New Castle will oppose the Erie Sailors here this evening in an O. & P. League game. The game will be played at Centennial field, and will start at 6:15 o'clock. This is ladies' night at the park, and they will be admitted to the game free of charge.

The directors of the New Castle club decided that the fairer sex needed a little recreation and straightway they extended to them the invitation to attend the game tonight, and it will be free.

Hoffman at Third

It was announced today that an old familiar face will be back in the New Castle lineup tonight, Quentin Hoffman, former third-baseman will handle the hot corner in the game with the Sailors tonight. Hoffman has been with Bellevue all season and has consented to appear in a New Castle uniform tonight.

With Maxim out of the lineup due to a boil on his right hand, the New Castle infield for tonight will be somewhat new to the fans. Hoffman at third, Flynn at short, Lawrence at second and McCoy at first. It is likely that Meis, General and McCullough will patrol the garden jobs.

The New Castle fans will extend a warm welcome to Hoffman tonight. "Tiny" as he was dubbed here last year, is a fine third sacker and also a terrific hitter. Many games were broken up last year by liners from the bat of the popular Pittsburgh boy.

The locals have been rather weak in hitting this year, but with Lawrence back in shape and Meis in the lineup, the team offense will be strengthened.

The Sailors on their final trip to this city nosed out the locals 1 to 0, in a thrilling ten inning affair. Jamieson was the victim of a three-hit game. Manager Meis intends to shove Jamieson back into the breach tonight in an effort to maintain a winning streak.

Westminster College Track Season Comes To Successful Close

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 8 Westminster's 1927 track season was officially brought to a close Tuesday with the naming of William Hartwell of New Wilmington, as captain for the 1928 campaign. Hartwell runs the dashes.

The past season was not overly successful, although Coach J. W. Coleman is to be commended for the work of the squad considering the material available and the type of opposition that was met.

In the first meet of the season, the United Presbyterians lost to Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. The Tartans scored only one first more than Westminster but took the majority of seconds and thirds. Geneva, as was expected, displayed Bill Butler, dash-man, and Cal Hubbard, weight star, to advantage to hand Westminster a one-sided defeat. Coleman's proteges finished third in the annual Tri-State Conference meet at Beaver Falls, finishing only a few points behind the highly touted Bethany group. The annual meet with Thiel had to be cancelled because of a disagreement in dates.

Westminster had fewer lettermen than usual. Those who received the "W" were: Capt.-elect Hartwell, William Thomas of Farrell, Edward Brown of New Wilmington, Wesley Rose of New Castle, Walter Hutchison of New Wilmington, Henry Bucher of New Wilmington and Kenneth Delahunty of Iselin. Thomas, Brown and Captain William Wilt of Ligonier, graduate.

Prospects are rather bright for next year. Orvil Mirtz of Pittsburgh, star runner, has been handicapped this year because of an operation for appendicitis and with Rose, he should round out a championship pair next spring. Delahunty, a freshman, performed well in the pole vault, going 11 feet 3 inches in the conference meet. Westminster's record until that time was 10 feet 6.

Lawrence Indies Trim Troop B In Fast Game 11-10

The Lawrence Indies defeated the Troop B team 11 to 10 in a free-for-all slugging bee staged on the Cedar street grounds on Tuesday night.

The game was one of the wierdest of the year in the Twilight loop, as to-wit; twenty-one runs, twenty five hits, and nine glaring errors. Both teams used two pitchers, and the heavers were rather badly mussed up at the finish. The Soldiers threatened in their half of the seventh by scoring four runs, but their rally was cut short.

The Lawrence Indies won the game in their half of the seventh by shoving over a run with but one man out. Price, S. Zidow, M. Zidow, Mosely, and White led the Indies with the willow, while Mayberry, Mitchell, D. Mayberry, and Dugan were the best hitters for the Troopers.

Meet Mr. Finklestein — By Feg Murray

Perhaps a great many of you don't know much about young Jakie Finklestein, of Chicago and Los Angeles, but I'm sure that before the year is over almost everyone will have heard of him. Jakie is a lightweight, who for some years has used the name of Jackie Fields, and he is so good a boxer that it does not take a great deal of imagination to picture him as some day wearing the crown that formerly adorned the brows of Joe Gans, Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast and Willie Ritchie.

In proof of the contention, let me remind you of the twelve-round no-decision bout between Fields and Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell, held in Los Angeles in April. Press reports agreed that Mandell got no better than a draw at the most, and hinted that had his title been at stake, there might have been a new champion crowned after the bout was over.

When I first saw Jackie Fields, he a page in a Los Angeles hotel and boxing in amateur four-round bouts at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. One of his first bouts was with a fellow club-mate, Fidel LaBarba, now flyweight champion of the world. Jackie lost the decision in that bout, but now he has grown bigger than Fidel, and would probably have no trouble defeating him if they should meet again.

Fields progressed rapidly enough to be sent to the national amateur championships in 1924, where he lost to a club-mate, Joe Salas, in the finals of the feather-weight division. But Jackie's boxing so impressed the committee that was picking the United States team for the Olympic games that Fields was taken along. At Paris he and Salas met in the finals and Fields won the world's amateur championship. All three of George Blake's boys, Jackie, Joe and Fidel, turned pro soon after that. Salas and LaBarba being managed by Blake, and Fields by Gig Rooney.

Fields suffered one serious setback in 1925, a two-round knockout by Jimmy McLarin, in which his jaw was broken, but eleven victories in 1926 show how quickly he forgot that incident. He is a marvelously fast and graceful boxer, a straight puncher, and a hard hitter. Old-timers who have seen him work liken him to Joe Gans, because of his footwork, fast punching, and classy boxing. Jackie should get by Kid Kaplan when they meet in the big Catholic Boy's Club benefit at the Polo Grounds, in New York a week from tonight, and go on to far greater glory—and, perhaps, to a world's title.

Feg Murray Says—

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Crafty old Jakie Atz, who was winning pennants out in Texas long before the cowboys began to hanker for the movies, and still is winning them, was discussing another veteran player recently.

"How old is he?" Jake's listener queried.

"Pretty old," replied Jake. "Old enough to want to pitch, and when they get that batty they're pretty old."

Asa matter of fact the desire to pitch is bred in every kid in the land and it is but human that sooner or later he becomes tired of repressing the desire. Many baseball players now playing other positions in the majors and minors cherish a long nursed hope to pitch.

Tris Speaker, called the greatest of centerfielders by many, had the desire early but it was nipped in the bud by an accident which cost him his pitching wing and forced him to learn to throw lefthanded. But the change to the south side gave him the idea that he'd like to play first base. And through some 19 years he has nursed the idea.

The other day Bucky Harris of the Senators gave Speaker his chance, sending him to first in the crippled Senatorial lineup.

His first day out he accepted 12 chances without an error and participated in five double plays.

The next day he accepted 10 chances without a bobble and participated in three double plays—22 chances in faultless fashion and a part in eight double killings!

Was there something besides desire on Speaker's part?

Eppa Rixey chalked up his first victory of the current baseball season on June 4.

Which may be accepted as the explanation for the poor showing of the Cinci club. Not that Rixey personally should draw the blame, but when a star pitcher wanders hopelessly through six or seven weeks of the campaign without turning in one victory, it's going to take some beautiful baseball by the rest of the team to neutralize the loss. The Reds couldn't produce better than ordinary baseball—hence their present position.

One of the outstanding features of the Western League season has been the wonderful improvement of the Wichita team under its new owners, Griggs and Crandall. With little change in the lineup since last season the Larks have soared from last place to a perch near the top of the column.

First Christians Top Presbyterians

The First Christians pulled the unexpected in the Church League last night at the Lehigh field, when they downed the Central Presbyterians 5 to 4, in a fast seven inning affair.

Lackey opposed Melder on the knoll and had the better of the argument all the way. Lackey allowed but five hits and fanned six batters, while Melder was found for 10 hits and fanned four men.

The Christians secured their victory by bunching their hits in the sixth and seventh innings to score their five runs. Bentley, G. Ryan and J. Ryan were the heavy hitters of the game.

Racing Plant Fire Damaged

(International News Service)

BOWIE, Md., June 8.—Fire early today almost destroyed the racing plant at the Bowie track.

The grandstand, judges' stand, stables and outbuildings were virtually wiped out. Few horses are quartered here at this season of the year and so far as is known none were lost.

Lack of fire fighting equipment hampered efforts to control the conflagration. The track is about half way between Baltimore and Washington, several miles back from the main pike.

Joe Hauser, loaned by Connie Mack to the Kansas City team, has found a new road to riches in the city of the Kaw. One day recently Joe performed the difficult feat of hitting the ball over the right field fence and was rewarded by the enthusiastic fans with a shower of 120 perfectly good dollars. The very next day he repeated the trick and $125 more was added to his bank account.

Meadows Trims Gotham Giants

New York Pitchers Unable To Check Pirate Batsmen

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—The Pirates defeated the New York Giants, nine to six, yesterday at Forbes field, Meadows outpitching Grimes, Henry and Songer, whom John McGraw employed to check the batting assault of the Pirates.

Meadows held the Giants to nine hits, but Hornsby and Terry featured with successive home runs, while Joe Harris led the attack on Grimes, who retired with one out in the fourth. Henry lasted four innings and Songer succeeded him.

Nearly every Pirate decked himself with some kind of glory during the contest with the McGrawmen, though Meadows got poor support in the fore part of the tilt. Harris got three hits and a free trip on five trips to the bat. The box score:

TOLEDO, OHIO

"even a feature-for-feature comparison does not reveal the full extent of Oakland's value supremacy"

Knowing the Oakland tradition of advanced engineering, you have probably sensed that the Greater Oakland Six offers certain things not found in other cars. But even a feature-for-feature comparison does not reveal the full extent of Oakland's value supremacy—for that is based not merely on these features, but on these features plus super-precision construction!

Expressed in terms of ten-thousandths of an inch and hundredths of an ounce, this exacting craftsmanship has excited widespread commendation. Yet you as a possible Oakland buyer, could appreciate its true significance only by going to Pontiac and living among the men who design and build the Oakland Six.

Here you would quickly sense the most vital factor in Oakland's success—a determination that every car leaving the plant shall be so built as to keep on creating owner good will long after an ordinary built car would have been replaced.

$1095 SEDAN

That, we believe, is the strongest assurance of lasting satisfaction a buyer could demand. And apparently tens of thousands of buyers have thought likewise. For the growth of Oakland popularity last year was an outstanding feat of recent automobile history—and that growth will be surpassed this year.

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. The New and Finer Pontiac Six, $775 to $975. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Grant Moves Down the Mississippi.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

UNTIL APRIL, 1863, ALL OF GRANT'S ATTEMPTS TO APPROACH THE FORTIFIED CITY OF VICKSBURG HAD FAILED. IN SPITE OF THIS FACT, HE WAS NOT DISCOURAGED, AND NOW PLANNED TO MOVE HIS ARMY DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI, CROSS OVER, AND ADVANCE ON HIS GOAL FROM THE SOUTH AND REAR.

THIS MOVEMENT PRESENTED SERIOUS DIFFICULTIES, AS, SINCE THE FAILURE OF THE CANAL PROJECT, THE SUPPLY SHIPS WOULD HAVE TO BE BROUGHT DOWN THE RIVER PAST THE GUNS OF VICKSBURG. BUT GRANT WAS DETERMINED TO TRY IT AND, WHILE GEN. SHERMAN'S DIVISION CONTINUED TO THREATEN HAYNES' BLUFF, MARCHED THE MAIN BODY DOWN THE WEST BANK TO HARD TIMES.

ON THE NIGHT OF APRIL 16TH, ADMIRAL PORTER, WITH SIX GUNBOATS AND A NUMBER OF TRANSPORTS, RAN THE BATTERIES AT VICKSBURG. THE TRANSPORTS WERE PROTECTED BY COAL-BARGES LASHED ALONGSIDE AND, THOUGH ONE OF THEM WAS SET AFIRE AND SUNK BY THE CONFEDERATE SHELLS, THE OTHERS SUCCEEDED IN GETTING PAST WITH BUT SLIGHT DAMAGE.

OTHER UNION VESSELS MADE THE DASH DOWN THE RIVER AND, BEFORE LONG, A FORMIDABLE FLEET WAS ASSEMBLED AT NEW CARTHAGE ON THE LOUISIANA SHORE. THIS AFFORDED GRANT THE MEANS OF FERRYING HIS LARGE FORCE ACROSS THE RIVER.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 8—Violent upheavals in a small number of the market specialties with occasional flareups in the popular motor stocks, constituted the chief feature of the early trading today.

Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil joined the active list in the mystery-specialties, and sold in huge volume around 18, compared with yesterday's price of 12. New York, Ontario and Western, a speculative railroad stock, held the center of the stage in that market, while Chrysler Motor continued the vigorous advance which started late in yesterday's session. Pittsburgh, Coal Certainteed Products and Texas Pacific Land Trust sold higher.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining, which jumped 5½ points to 115½, the oil list was again reactionary, as the result of reaching of the "new peak" in crude oil production and the slashing of gasoline prices in various parts of the country. Market leaders in the industrials and rails, like U. S. Steel and New York Central were under moderate selling pressure and declined fractionally.

Seven Million Aid To State Highways Announced Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8.—An additional $7,000,000 today was available for county road construction in the state. Allotments for each of the counties were announced last night by the department of highways.

The awards announced are prorated on a mileage basis and must be met by each of the counties. A number of the smaller counties, however, never avail themselves of the sums apportioned by the state.

The $7,000,000 award is in addition to $5,000,000 regular county aid announced last week.

The Reward for Investing in REAL ESTATE — Profit —

Apartments

EX-PRESIDENT Grover Cleveland once said, "No Investment on earth is so safe, so sure, so certain to enrich its owner as undeveloped realty. I always advise my friends to place their savings in realty near some growing city. There is no such savings bank anywhere."

The rise in real estate values has been the basis of more fortunes than any one other form of investment. Inherently sound, unmindful of every little business flux, real estate progresses steadily, sometimes spectacularly, toward the goal of profit. Offerings under our jurisdiction have had a remarkable record of success.

REV. FR. MORIARITY VISITS NEW CASTLE

Rev. Father P. J. Moriarity, pastor of St. John's Evangelist church, South 14th street, Pittsburgh, was a New Castle visitor yesterday.

The new army blouses have "graceful flaring skirts", according to a news item. The skirt is an ancient form of dress that used to be a fad among women.

Veils are dying out in Persia, it is said. We wonder what the police reporters over there have to say now about a threat.

TWO-HEADED CALF ON KINSMAN FARM

KINSMAN, June 8.—The double headed calf owned by John Kanamen, north of West Williamsfield on the old Slater farm, attracts a large number of visitors. Even with the small nominal charge of 10c the calf pays better than several dairies. Mr. Kanamen has had several good offers for the calf, but has refused to sell. The calf is now over seven months old and in excellent health.

The center eye has been injured and is now blind. Several scientific experts believe the double nature of the calf extends throughout the body. Its muscles indicate that it eats hay with its left mouth, but only drinks milk with its right mouth.

Controversy Rages Over Legislators As Members Of State Institutions

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8.—The opinion of Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader, holding that members of the legislature may not serve as members of the boards of trustees of state institutions today had failed to clear up what has been a controversial question for a number of years. The opinion, addressed to Governor John S. Fisher, was approved by Attorney General Thomas Baldrige.

The main effect of the present Schnader opinion will be to cancel appointments already announced of two state senators to boards of state institutions. Senator Harry B. Scott, Centre, has been named as a member of the Philipsburg hospital board and Senator Frederick T. Gelder, Lycoming, to the Farview board.

Several former attorney generals had held to the same opinion and that the resignation of a member of the legislature did not terminate "the term for which they were elected" which is the prohibitory phrase for such appointments.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot, however, found a way to appoint Rep. A. I. Fowler as a member of the Scranton registration commission after he had resigned as a member.

Eligibility for civil places not under direct appointment by the governor still remains a mooted question. Rep. C. J. McBride, resigned after the last session of the legislature, evidently, observers said, under the belief that he would be appointed to the Allegheny county board of viewers. The Allegheny county judges who made the appointment construed the constitution at prohibition adversely to McBride and he failed to be named.

ESTATE DIVIDED AMONG 47 HEIRS

MERCER, Pa., June 8.—A partition case in the equity court of Mercer county, in which there are 47 heirs, is that in which the action is brought by Clara Wilson Kretzenger and G. Wilson Ketzenger vs. Maggie Thompson et al. P. W. Wilson of Clarksville died September 1, 1873, leaving several tracts of real estate. His widow and sons are also dead, the sons without issue. To settle up his estate each branch of the family had to be located out to the last blood connection before partition proceedings could start. Notice has been served on all, it is reported, and a master may now be appointed. The action was started a year ago, but until the heirs could be all served nothing could be done.

Filing of the complaint yesterday was postponed because of the delay of Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys in preparing the answer.

Swedish "Drama Ship" On Summer Cruise

(International News Service)
STOCKHOLM, June 8.—A modern Viking expedition has just left the harbor of Stockholm in the service of the drama.

The ship, called the New Pickwick, is an eighteen-ton sailing yacht with auxiliary motor, manned by a well-trained theatrical group under the direction of the Swedish actor, Albin Erlandzon.

Its peaceful raids will last throughout the summer, and include a number of towns along the Swedish coast, where theatrical performances will be given.

Politics makes strange bedfellows, but they soon get accustomed to the same bur

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MEUN HINT

Meat loaf, served hot or cold, is a good summer dish. The meat is usually seasoned quite highly which gives it the necessary fillip for warm weather. It is good for sandwich filling, too, and it keeps well. The following recipe for beef loaf may be used with veal instead of beef.

Beef Loaf
Scalloped Potatoes Radishes
Buttered Green Beans
Strawberries and Pineapple in Sherbet Cups
Wafers or Graham Crackers
Milk or Lemonade

TODAY'S RECIPES

Beef Loaf—Two pounds ground beef, one-fourth pound ground salt pork, one-half cup milk, one onion, two eggs, two teaspoons salt, pepper to taste. Make into loaf, put in pan and bake two hours. This is good with a tomato sauce poured over it.

SUGGESTIONS
Home Repairs

Cane bottoms of chairs that have become loose and saggy may be tightened by wetting the seats with hot water until they are thoroughly soaked. Set the chairs in the open air to dry.

During Housecleaning

If care is taken the job of housecleaning can be accomplished without utter ruin of the hands. Before starting to clean, moisten some white soap and work it into the pores, around the cuticle and under the finger nails. Then proceed with your work and after it is over you will find all soil will wash off with the soap and the pores will not have taken up any of the grime.

Sense in Shoes

Alternate different pairs of shoes if you wish them to last.

Never wear shoes when in need of repair. Have them mended before they are hopeless.

Have your shoes polished regularly so as to remove dirt before it has worked into the leather and caused real damage.

Consider what you need most when purchasing shoes and don't wear thin-soled dancing slippers to work and expect them to last as long as a business shoe.

Economizing Space

If you happen to live in small quarters, it becomes an important problem to use limited space to the best advantage. The following suggestion may be of assistance:

Purchase two large steel hooks. Screw into the large end of the ironing board. You may then hang the board onto the hooks in a closet, on the back of some door which is seldom used. By doing this, you keep the board handy and out of the way and also off the floor where it tends to collect dust. Your electric iron cord can also be slipped through these hooks when ironing, thus keeping the cord out of your way.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown during the death of our husband and father; also for the beautiful floral tributes and donations of cars.

POLICE PROTECTION FOR BUHL PARK

MERCER, Pa., June 8.—A policeman for the Buhl farm, on which is located a recreation park for Sharon and vicinity, was petitioned by trustees of the estate of the late donor, Frank H. Buhl, in a petition presented to Judge J. A. McLaughry.

The document sets forth that the park is located in Hickory township, which is just outside the city limits, and that proper police protection is not afforded the grounds.

The selection of policeman fell on Edward McMahon, who is stated to be a resident of Hickory township for 23 years.

The court granted the order and McMahon is appointed, subject to the orders of the club trustees.

Large Tarantula Is Found Dead

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Two thousand students and faculty members of a local high school breathed easy for the first time in a week today when it was announced that a large tarantula which escaped from the zoology department had been found dead. Fear of being bitten by the deadly tarantula disrupted many classes before it was found dead.

Council Reinstates Detective Burgess Fired Three Times

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 8.—Reinstated for the third time after being discharged by Burgess Lewis, Anthony W. Bell, Jr., formerly county detective last night was reinstated by a vote of 4 to 1 by the Masontown borough council. The councilmen also voted to give Bell his back pay.

Lewis, before his departure for Staunton, Va., to attend the graduation exercises of the Staunton Military Academy, declared that upon his return Bell would be suspended the fourth time, and the borough council is just as insistant that he will be reinstated at the next session and that he will be given his back pay as usual.
